Sturdivant Cursed 'Whisky' Record Entry, Lieutenant Tells Probers in Relating Auto Release.

Chief of Police T. O. Sturdivant countermanded charges of suspicion of murder filed by city detectives against Ralph Owens, convicted bootlegger, ordered them changed to disorderly conduct and obtained Owens' release on a $1,000 bond, police officers last night told members of the police committee trying Sturdivant on charges which will strip the chief of control of the department if proven.

Testimony that Owens and Sturdivant were friends, and that Owens demanded that he be carried "to T. O.'s office" when arrested on the complaints featured the second hearing in the trial of Sturdivant on charges of illegal release of two impounded liquor cars to Owens and on general charges of incompetency and inefficiency.

Public interest in the trial continued and the recorders' courtroom at the police station was packed for the second successive night as scores attempted to get close enough to hear witnesses called to the stand by the prosecution.

Finch Protests.

Frequent clashes between City Attorney Jack C. Savage and George Finch, leading defense counsel, marked the hearing and at one time Finch jumped to his feet to object to the line of questioning which Savage pursued.

"I'll go you a halter, Jack," Finch shouted. "You are not leading the witness now. You are dragging him. I want to object to you acting in a triple capacity in this trial. You are the prosecutor, the advisor to the committee and . . . I've changed my mind I won't name the third. I demand to know if all this hearsay testimony is to be permitted to remain in the records. I object to it, and I want every one of these objections noted."

Savage asserted he would connect the testimony up and make it relevant or would ask the committee to ignore it.

'MAYHEM' MOTHER FOUND IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Maryon Cooper Is Under Treatment For Suicide Attempt Feb. 21.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Maryon Cooper Hewitt, sought on a mayhem warrant issued by San Francisco police on charges brought by her daughter, was found by police tonight in the psychopathic ward of the Medical Center where she has been under treatment since February 21.

Deputy Police Chief Charles Wilson said he was permitted to speak briefly with the woman.

"Are you Mrs. Maryon Cooper Hewitt?" he asked.

"Yes, that's my name," she replied. Police lodged a charge of attempted suicide against her.

Mrs. Hewitt has been sought for several weeks to appear in San Francisco on charges brought by her daughter, Anne Cooper Hewitt, heiress to the Peter Cooper millions, that the mother and two physicians conspired to perform a sterilization operation on her.

Wilson said Mrs. Hewitt registered at a Journal Square hotel (Plaza) on February 9 as Mrs. Jane Merritt, of Boston. She advised hotel authorities she was suffering from a nervous ailment and did not wish to be disturbed.

Found Unconscious. A maid found the woman unconscious on her bed shortly after midnight on February 21. She summoned a Medical Center ambulance. Physicians said she had taken an overdose of a sedative she had been taking for her nerves.

Mother in Chicago Has 12-Ounce Baby

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Birth of a baby which Dr. Edward P. King said he believed was the world's smallest was reported today. The child was too tiny to weigh on its arrival in St. Anne's hospital of Chicago on January 14, the physician said, but he estimated the birth weight at 12 ounces. The infant now weighs two pounds and two ounces.

NEW KIDNAP CLUE IS FOUND IN CHILE

Ex-Ship Purser Claims To Have Seen $30,000 of Lindy Ransom Money.

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 28.—(UP)—Governor Harold G. Hoffman said tonight he was anxious to question Umberto Pastori, former ship's purser, who claims to have a clue to $30,000 of the ransom paid for the Lindbergh baby.

Pastori, in Santiago, Chile, told the United Press that on April 9, 1932—seven days after the ransom was paid—a man known as "E. B." came aboard the Grace liner Santa Olivia at Balboa, Canal Zone, gave him $30,000 in small bills to keep in the ship's safe and said: "The Lindbergh kidnap is aboard this ship."

State police here, who have investigated hundreds of Lindbergh kidnaping clues, said they never had heard Pastori's story, and added that they would investigate if the matter is referred to them officially.

Hoffman made an affidavit for the Santiago bureau of the United Press to which he was referred by two South American newspapers.

At his Perth Amboy home tonight, Hoffman charged David T. Wilentz said he was anxious to see the affidavit, which is on its way from Santiago.

He will forward it immediately to the state police for investigation," Wilentz said.

Hoffman hopes Pastori will come to this country.

"I certainly will be glad to hear his story if he returns," the Governor said.

C. Lloyd Fisher, chief counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, who is under sentence of death for the murder of the Lindbergh baby, said "my all means I want to see that affidavit."

Continues Fight. Fisher continued his fight for Hauptmann's life by saving he was considering swearing out a perjury complaint against Joseph Perrone, New York taxi-driver, who was one of the principal prosecution witnesses at the Flemington trial.

Hoffman charged yesterday that Perrone's testimony was vague. The taxi-driver identified Hauptmann as the man who gave him a dollar to carry a note to Dr. John F. (Jafise) Condon during negotiations for the ransom. Hoffman and Fisher contend Perrone identified several other men, as well as Hauptmann, as the man who gave him the note.

"This thing gets worse and worse as it goes along," Fisher said. "Perrone picks out a little fellow with gray hair and two teeth missing as almost the twin of the man who gave him the note. And then he identifies Hauptmann, who is inches taller and has brown hair and all his teeth."

F. D. R. TAX PLANS BRING PROTESTS

Legislators Say President Will Get Less Than Half of Amount Asked.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—A billion-dollar tax program, drafted for speedy enactment by President Roosevelt, tonight encountered emphatic protest in powerful sectors of congress.

From these sources came predictions that the legislation would run into an historic battle and assertions that the President will get less than half that amount.

The chief executive called for such an increase in the federal revenues as would offset the loss of invalidated processing taxes and cost of the bonus. He proposed:

A "new" tax, intended to yield $120,000,000 annually, to be effective nine years, amortizing the cost of the bonus in that time.

A "substitute" tax to replace the processing taxes and finance future farm benefit payments, intended to produce $500,000,000 annually.

"Reimbursement" taxes to make up for the losses in processing taxes during the current year, producing a sum total of $500,000,000 over a period of one to three years and then expiring.

A "windfall" tax, included in the item, intended to recapture processing tax payments which were impounded by the courts and then returned to the processors, to yield $150,000,000.

The President said he would make no recommendations as to tax sources, the house ways and means committee will determine upon them, he said, probably sending tentative schedules to the treasury for estimates and then reaching a decision.

Endeavoring to put these items into

Cobb Says: Club Seeks New Members

By IRVIN S. COBB.
(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 28.—The luncheon of our Writers' Club, Inc. (Red Inc.), a weekly function with corned beef and cabbage and plagarism charges. This week we had with us the leading fiction writer of the Pacific slope—Mr. Dainoffield, the local weather forecaster.

Another guest was William A. Brady, the grand old man of the American stage, with great tales of the ancient days, when, to qualify as a trouper, one had to be a pe-destrian. Before they asked you whether you could act, they found out what kind of a walker you were. But how many of those sure-footed California beginners counted crows-ies as they trudged into enduring fame? Balasco and Tom Wise and Frank Bacon and Holbrook Blinn and Dave Warfield and many another.

We also welcomed some new members. We're very exclusive. There are groups here that'll take in people who even failed to make the book-of-the-month club. But to join up with us, you must have written something significant—insurance or promissory notes or booster slogans anyhow, something. We're angling now for a distinguished new figure in the field of literature. He does skywriting, by the way.

Here's wishing everybody many happy returns of February 29!

NIPPONESE REBELS LEAVE BUILDINGS, SURRENDER ARMS

Evacuation Is Completed After Planes Drop Handbills Calling Insurgent Officers, Men 'Traitors.'

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 28.—(AP)—A Domei (Japanese) Press Agency wireless dispatch to the Rafu Shimpō (Los Angeles Japanese Daily News) said tonight that evacuation of all enlisted men and non-commissioned officers from government buildings was completed at 11:30 a. m. February 29 (Tokyo time).

The surrender of the rebels took place after airplanes had flown over the buildings and dropped handbills on the besieged places.

These handbills termed the troops and officers taking part in the coup as "traitors," the correspondent reported, for defying Emperor Hiroto to evacuate the buildings by 8 a. m. February 28.

The martial law and administration was the reason for the insubordination earlier that it would have been necessary to fire upon the imperial palace grounds, and also the firing would have endangered the American embassy.

EVACUATION COMPLETED, SAYS SHANGHAI REPORT.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 29.—(Saturday)—(AP)—The Japanese embassy was informed today that rebels who had held government buildings in Tokyo since Wednesday morning surrendered at 11 a. m. today, Tokyo time (8 p. m., Atlanta time).

The announcement of receipt of this message at the embassy followed reports to the White House that General Kōkei Kashii, leader of the government's loyal forces, had been ordered by the emperor to evict the rebels.

FARM MONEY BILL PASSED IN HOUSE

Plan Sent to Senate; Byrns, Garner Sign Soil Conservation Substitute

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—A near-record $161,863,147 agricultural appropriation bill for 1936-37, was passed by the house and sent to the senate today, coincident with a hurried shaping by AAA officials of still-incomplete plans for administering the new farm program.

During the day, Speaker Byrns and Vice President Garner signed the $500,000,000 soil-conservation substitute for the agricultural adjustment act and rushed to the White House for assured prompt approval.

On still another farm front, President Roosevelt, as an aftermath of his veto of the $50,000,000 seed-loan bill, today issued an executive order allocating $7,000,000 to the Farm Credit Administration for such loans.

Loans Limited to $200. The executive said this money will be supplemented "from time to time by such additional allocations as may be necessary"—but with the stipulation that funds for this purpose not exceed $200,000 and that loans to any one borrower be limited to $200.

Nevertheless, the senate agriculture committee, disgruntled over Mr. Roosevelt's veto of the seed-loan bill, named a subcommittee to try to work out a compromise. A party floor fight shaped up in the house, meanwhile, over the old AAA. The house agriculture committee voted to recommend tabling of a resolution by Representative Taber, republican, New York, asking for the names of benefit recipients of more than $2,000 and the amounts paid them.

House Must Act. The resolution must be acted on by the house, where republicans planned to denounce what they have complained was payment of big amounts to large landowners at the expense of the little farmers.

The agriculture committee coincidentally approved a bill by Representative Gillette, democrat, Iowa, to continue for two more years the 3-1-2 per cent interest rate on Federal Land Bank loans. Last year's amendment of the farm loan act provided that after June 30, the interest go down 4 per cent for two years and 4-1-2 per cent thereafter.

The agricultural money measure provides $4,000,000 for the Farm Credit Administration in addition to the $161,863,147.

Also approved by the agriculture committee was a resolution by Representative Treadway, republican, Massachusetts, to instruct the bureau of agricultural economics to furnish a "complete and unexpurgated" report on the effect of the farm program on cotton. The report has been subject of

Barbara Hutton Fighting for Life After Major Operation in London

Heiress, Four Days After Birth of Son, Forced to Go Under Knife.

LONDON, Feb. 29.—(Saturday)—(UP)—Lord Horder, physician to King Edward VIII, early this morning was summoned for the third time to aid Countess Barbara Hutton Von Haugwitz-Reventlow, heiress to the Woolworth 5 and 10 mills, in her fight for life after a major operation following within four days the birth of her $400,000 infant son.

Lord Horder was accompanied by Dr. E. G. Slesinger, who performed the operation for an "abdominal obstruction" necessitated indirectly by Princess Babs' "slimming diet" of 1934.

Also present was Dr. Lang Roberts, famous British obstetrician, who attended the patient when she gave birth to her son Monday.

The London Daily Express said it is understood the countess' son was born after a Caesarian operation, performed by Dr. Roberts.

The Daily Telegraph later claimed to have confirmed the report that the baby was born after a Caesarian operation. It added that Count Haugwitz-Reventlow spent the night at Barbara's side. One doctor and several nurses reportedly were on duty

CITIZENS TO SEEK POLICE REFORMS

'Day of Reckoning' Has Come, Committee Says; Advisers To Be Named.

A non-partisan board of outstanding citizens to act in an advisory capacity in reorganization and operation of the Atlanta police department, the organization of an Atlanta Citizen's Safety Committee, creation of an office of traffic commissioner for Atlanta and a state driver's license law for Georgia were a few of the innovations advocated yesterday afternoon at a meeting of representatives of approximately 75 civic and business organizations to determine steps necessary to eradicate the complex and hazardous traffic conditions of Atlanta.

The meeting was called by the Atlanta Motor Club, but the city-wide fight for more rigid and efficient traffic law enforcement will be carried on by the joint effort of all organizations of the city, according to Robert P. McLarty, president of the motor club.

Human Life at Stake. "Human life is at stake," declared Mr. McLarty. "None of these organizations is seeking credit, but we all are determined to see that changes necessary to safety and better traffic control are made without further delay."

The proposals were presented to the representatives of the various organizations of Atlanta by the traffic committee of the Atlanta Motor Club, headed by Major General George Van Horst Mosely.

The Citizens' Safety Committee, as proposed at the meeting, is to be composed of representatives of all leading civic and business organizations and such other citizens as the committee might ask to serve. By this move, the committee would carry a powerful, city-wide influence in seeking legislation or other action deemed necessary for public safety.

Executive Board Named. The executive board of the citizen's committee was appointed during the session yesterday afternoon and included Preston S. Arkwright, General Mosely, Mr. McLarty, J. A. Harper, president of the Atlanta Federation of Labor, Jere Wells, superintendent of county schools, Walter C. Hendrix, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce safety committee, Mrs. Leonard

Harrison Named Head Of N. Y. Reserve Bank

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(AP)—George L. Harrison was elected president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York today.

The election was in accordance with the terms of the new banking act. Harrison was former governor of the New York institution, an office superseded by the presidency.

Allan Sproul was chosen first vice president. He formerly was a deputy governor.

The new law necessitated the appointment of former deputy governors as vice presidents and assistant deputy governors as assistant vice presidents. All the changes made today became effective March 1.

Deputy governors who now become vice presidents include: W. Randolph Burgess, Charles H. Coe, Walter S. Logan, Leslie R. Rounds, Louis H. Seiler and John H. Williams.

RELEASE OF MAIL TO STATE ORDERED

Postoffice Solicitor Rules Courts Must Decide Status of Officials.

Holding that it is up to the state courts to determine who are the legal controller-general and state treasurer of Georgia, the Postoffice Department in Washington yesterday notified Postmaster Lon Lovingson, of Atlanta, not to further impound mail addressed to the comptroller and the treasurer. The department suggested that a decision be obtained in the state courts.

The department, through Solicitor Karl A. Crowley, also instructed the postmaster not to cash any money orders addressed to either Comptroller-General William B. Harrison or State Treasurer George B. Hamilton of the de facto officials, G. B. Carreker and J. B. Daniel.

Harrison and Hamilton had no comment to make but they indicated that they would follow the Washington suggestion and go into the state courts.

Talmadge Filled Plea. The decision came from Washington a few hours after Governor Talmadge, acting through two special assistant attorneys-general, W. S. Mann, of McLaure, and Samuel D. Hewlett, of Atlanta, had filed a petition in the federal court seeking to compel Postmaster Livingston to release the mail he has impounded. The petition was not signed or presented by Attorney-General Yonah Wicks or any of his assistants in the department of law. The attorney-general has announced that he does not consider the present suit in conformity with law.

Under the instructions from Mr. Crowley, the Atlanta postoffice will deliver mail addressed to the comptroller-general and the treasurer to the capitol and mail addressed to

TALMADGE TAKES $3,500,000 MORE FROM BANKS HERE

Deposits in C. & S. and First National Drawn; State Units Preparing To Seek Protection of Courts in Money Tangle

DANIEL PAYS OUT $237,000 IN MONIES

$5,000,000 Is Held in Vault at Treasury; Governor Is Silent on Withholding of U. S. Funds.

Governor Talmadge drew an additional $3,500,000 in highway funds from Atlanta banks yesterday and, apparently out of these road funds, began paying what he de facto treasurer, J. B. Daniel, termed "all warrants for departments and agencies as they are presented."

After the de facto treasurer had paid out $237,000 during the day, all of it in cash, there still was more than $5,000,000 in currency in the giant vault in the treasury.

All over the state there were rumors that individuals and counties planned to seek the aid of the courts in what they believed to be a wholesale diversion of highway funds, with or without an executive order, the counties planning some means to protect the $2,600,000 due them on March 25. Several lawyers were reported to be preparing injunction proceedings against the highway board, some of which may be filed today.

General Cash Low. It was pointed out that some of the $237,000 cashed out by Daniel yesterday undoubtedly came out of the highway money because, so far as could be learned, only $102,000 in general funds, this from the National City Bank of Rome, was available.

The Governor had nothing to say. In fact he made no announcement that the added $3,500,000 had been withdrawn.

Early yesterday, F. P. Van Story, secretary-treasurer of the highway board, acting under direction of the board, went to the First National Bank and drew out approximately $180,000. This was taken to the MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—A check of guests' losses this afternoon indicated cash and valuables totaling $20,000 or more were taken in the early morning robbery of the small Colony hotel here.

Three armed, unmasked bandits, who threatened two employees in the hotel's dimly lit lobby into silence, ripped out the entire safe deposit vault of 30 boxes and escaped in an automobile before daylight.

Only 20 of the receptacles carted away by the bandits were in use. One contained $650 of the hotel's cash and the others held property of the hotel's 115 guests, believed mainly to be road trippers, small amounts of cash and a few pieces of jewelry.

ROOSEVELT'S TAX BILL HITS NEW OPPOSITION

the more usual tax parlance of increased yield per fiscal year, some observers concluded that under the President's program the total for next year would be some $735,000,000, or the "reimbursement" taxes are spread over the full three-year period.

Chairman Doughton, democrat, North Carolina, of the house ways and means committee, which will draft the bill, was quick to predict the ultimate measure would fall short of the President's requests.

The committee, he said, must consider a prevailing congressional sentiment for holding any new tax measure to an absolute minimum until after next fall's elections.

From majority leaders came statements that the program would be put through expeditiously, but with a minimum of opposition.

"I don't anticipate any trouble," said Chairman Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, of the senate finance committee.

"We'll have to pass the bill," said Representative Bankhead, democrat, Alabama, the first speaker to say "We can't go on forever with all outgo and no income to offset it. The President has made up his mind to balance the regular budget and he's going to do it."

Budget "In Balance."
As submitted to congress, he continued, the budget for the next fiscal year was in balance, except for such amounts as will be spent for relief. The present objective, he added, is to end the session of congress with the budget still in balance except for the relief item.

This raised the question how much additional revenue was needed. To pay off the bonus by 1945, the year in which it was originally due, he said, would require $120,000,000 a year, in addition to statutory sinking fund requirements already budgeted.

Thus, he said, $120,000,000 annually in new taxes would be sufficient for this purpose.

The next question he raised was how much the treasury was left in the hole by the invalidation of the processing taxes. He fixed this amount at $1,017,000,000 for this and the next fiscal year combined.

The treasury must get this amount back, he continued, and taxes designed to accomplish this purpose can not be considered new taxes, but rather substitute taxes placing the same burden upon the public as that imposed by the old law.

Refunded Levies.
Referring to processing tax payments which were impounded while the legality of the tax was under adjudication in federal courts, he said he obtained the refund to the processor, Mr. Roosevelt said it was neither fair nor equitable that those who benefited by this procedure should be put on the same footing with those who did not.

So, he said, a "windfall tax" had been designed to recapture a sizeable percentage of the money refunded. He described it as a special tax on those who received such refunds. Asked if those on whom such a tax would be levied might not be the same as those who received the refund, Mr. Roosevelt replied he could only refer the question to a clairvoyant.

Returning to the $1,017,000,000 two-year cost of the farm program, he said one-half of that amount would be allocated to "substitute" taxes to be collected during the year, while the other $500,000,000 for this year, which included the $100,000,000 of "windfall taxes," would be raised to three-year period.

Retrospective Taxes.
For substitute taxes, the President said he and his advisors had explored the possibilities of retrospective taxes, and had decided they were probably desirable, but difficult to levy and likely to work hardships. Whether the idea had been to aim retrospective taxes at the processors, he did not say.

He added $500,000,000 was the amount the treasury lost through the AAA decision and that that sum had to be recouped in some way. Whatever tax is imposed for that purpose would be temporary, he said, adding that whether it is spread over a few years is immaterial for the treasury in connection with the budget.

While the President said the "windfall" tax would be a tax on a special form of income—the refunds of processing taxes—the method of levying it was uncertain. Some suggested a special excise profits tax might scoop it up.

It was regarded as a foregone conclusion that there ultimately would be excise taxes on the processing of farm products and a thorough examination of the present income tax schedules to see if they yield cannot be increased, he said.

one of the men who arrested Owens in connection with the shooting of a negro, was on the stand. Sturdivant was attempting to elicit from McGarrity that he was shifted from the detective department to a less lucrative and less responsible job by Sturdivant to see him when the chief came in. I don't know what happened after that."

Crack Detective Transferred.
McGarrity said he was transferred to the "shotgun" squad and formed to guard the jail from 9 p. m. each night until 5 a. m. in order to prevent recurring prison breaks. He said the job was horrible and the morning watch, which he designated as the "worst watch in the department."

It was during this description that Sturdivant offered a letter in which he offered to lead the witness, and it was almost immediately afterwards that Finch arose to deliver a caustic indictment of Sturdivant's conduct.

Sturdivant, who was shot and killed, I thought, we should hold him for further investigation. I did not know that bond had been allowed until the morning after it had been granted the night before.

Dailey told a rambling story of how the late Lieutenant Lon Evans had gotten the job for him to guard Dodd, Sturdivant was tried for the murder of Dodd. He said he was not specific as to time spent at various places, but said he and Dodd slept little.

Under questioning he said Dodd "had me regular policeman's pay for ever; eight hours I worked guarding him." Dailey also said he spent the night at Dodd's home. Dodd was arrested and he stayed in the downstairs living room.

U. S. Experts Explain New Farm Measure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Agriculture Department experts today prepared the following answers to questions about the new soil conservation farm program, legislation for which now rests on President Roosevelt's desk:

1. What will the new farm program be called?
A. The AAA. A part of the adjustment act was untouched by the new law. The new law will be used for enforcement.

2. When will the new program be launched?
A. With the convening of regional meetings of farmers, probably next Thursday at Memphis and Chicago.

3. What are the principal differences between the new program and the old AAA?
A. Instead of aiming directly for conservation of the soil, the new program will seek preservation of soil fertility. Subsidy payments will be made generally available and not restricted to farmers who sign contracts. No contracts will be permitted.

4. How will the new program be financed?
A. Subsidy payments will be made generally available and not restricted to farmers who sign contracts. No contracts will be permitted.

5. What will be the effect of the new program?
A. Probably not. Under the new program, however, more money probably will be paid to regions now producing such major commercial crops as cotton, corn and wheat.

6. Could the AAA control hog or beef production?
A. Probably only incidentally. Live-stock production might be controlled by limiting in some way the production of feed crops.

7. If no definite commodity programs can be established, what can be done to prevent surpluses and to raise prices for special crops, such as tobacco, sugar cane and sugar beets and rice?
A. No definite answer has been found for this question. In some quarters, the office force here say that bacco and rice prices might be maintained by passing a law "overriding interstate shipments of the commodities affected."

8. If regional sections of the AAA are established, and regional programs operated, will regional offices be opened and the AAA organization decentralized?
A. This is not expected during the first year, and regional offices probably will be maintained in Washington.

9. Will the AAA employ more people?
A. No employment of new workers is expected. The AAA furloughed from 1,000 to 1,500 persons after January 1, many of whom will be re-employed for the new program.

10. How many acres of commercial land will the administration seek to have diverted to soil conserving crops?
A. The AAA has estimated that about 50,000,000 acres of commercial lands are producing crops for which there is no foreign market. The AAA is planning to divert a portion of this land.

11. What will be the basis for subsidy payments under the new program?
A. This is to be determined largely at the four regional meetings now planned. But for many crops, the basis probably will be a combination of the acreage of the crop and the price of the crop.

12. When will details of the new program be known?
A. The AAA plans to withhold the announcement until the regional meetings, the date of which probably will be set tomorrow or Monday.

STURDIVANT ACCUSED OF CHANGING RECORDS

one of the men who arrested Owens in connection with the shooting of a negro, was on the stand. Sturdivant was attempting to elicit from McGarrity that he was shifted from the detective department to a less lucrative and less responsible job by Sturdivant to see him when the chief came in. I don't know what happened after that."

Crack Detective Transferred.
McGarrity said he was transferred to the "shotgun" squad and formed to guard the jail from 9 p. m. each night until 5 a. m. in order to prevent recurring prison breaks. He said the job was horrible and the morning watch, which he designated as the "worst watch in the department."

It was during this description that Sturdivant offered a letter in which he offered to lead the witness, and it was almost immediately afterwards that Finch arose to deliver a caustic indictment of Sturdivant's conduct.

Sturdivant, who was shot and killed, I thought, we should hold him for further investigation. I did not know that bond had been allowed until the morning after it had been granted the night before.

U. S. Experts Explain New Farm Measure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Agriculture Department experts today prepared the following answers to questions about the new soil conservation farm program, legislation for which now rests on President Roosevelt's desk:

1. What will the new farm program be called?
A. The AAA. A part of the adjustment act was untouched by the new law. The new law will be used for enforcement.

2. When will the new program be launched?
A. With the convening of regional meetings of farmers, probably next Thursday at Memphis and Chicago.

3. What are the principal differences between the new program and the old AAA?
A. Instead of aiming directly for conservation of the soil, the new program will seek preservation of soil fertility. Subsidy payments will be made generally available and not restricted to farmers who sign contracts. No contracts will be permitted.

4. How will the new program be financed?
A. Subsidy payments will be made generally available and not restricted to farmers who sign contracts. No contracts will be permitted.

5. What will be the effect of the new program?
A. Probably not. Under the new program, however, more money probably will be paid to regions now producing such major commercial crops as cotton, corn and wheat.

6. Could the AAA control hog or beef production?
A. Probably only incidentally. Live-stock production might be controlled by limiting in some way the production of feed crops.

7. If no definite commodity programs can be established, what can be done to prevent surpluses and to raise prices for special crops, such as tobacco, sugar cane and sugar beets and rice?
A. No definite answer has been found for this question. In some quarters, the office force here say that bacco and rice prices might be maintained by passing a law "overriding interstate shipments of the commodities affected."

8. If regional sections of the AAA are established, and regional programs operated, will regional offices be opened and the AAA organization decentralized?
A. This is not expected during the first year, and regional offices probably will be maintained in Washington.

9. Will the AAA employ more people?
A. No employment of new workers is expected. The AAA furloughed from 1,000 to 1,500 persons after January 1, many of whom will be re-employed for the new program.

10. How many acres of commercial land will the administration seek to have diverted to soil conserving crops?
A. The AAA has estimated that about 50,000,000 acres of commercial lands are producing crops for which there is no foreign market. The AAA is planning to divert a portion of this land.

11. What will be the basis for subsidy payments under the new program?
A. This is to be determined largely at the four regional meetings now planned. But for many crops, the basis probably will be a combination of the acreage of the crop and the price of the crop.

STATE MAIL RELEASE ORDERED BY SOLICITOR

Hamilton and Harrison to them personally.

Although the decision of postal authorities places the mail in the hands of the governor and his de facto officers, it was pointed out last night that the action will not permit them to handle checks. Under the law, county collector must place the money in a depository and forward a check to the capitol. It apparently will be available to the de facto group only if the county collector deposits the money in the National City Bank of Rome, the only institution thus far giving recognition to Talmadge's set-up.

"The mail in question is obviously the mail of the state of Georgia and not the individuals named," Mr. Crowley said in his letter. He added that the matter which rested within the jurisdiction of the state courts.

"On suit was set for in the morning, and we won it before it came," Governor Talmadge commented when informed of the Crowley letter.

Mr. Crowley's letter to Postmaster Livingston follows:
"Postoffice Department,
"Office of the Solicitor,
Washington, February 28, 1936.
"Postmaster, Atlanta, Ga.:
"My dear sir:

"The receipt is acknowledged of your letter of the 28th instant, enclosing, relating to a mail dispute which has arisen at your office.

"It appears that the Governor of the state of Georgia, acting under the authority of the state of Georgia, removed W. B. Harrison from the office of comptroller general of the state of Georgia, and the state of Georgia, and appointed in their place and stead G. B. Carreker and J. B. Daniel, respectively.

"The mail in question is, obviously, mail of the state of Georgia and not the mail of any of the individuals named. Of course, the state must act through officers, but it is not the province of the Postoffice Department to determine which individuals are the duly qualified officers of the state, and which are not.

"The determination of the jurisdiction of which rests within the jurisdiction of the state courts.

"It further appears that the offices of the comptroller general, with the exception of the comptroller general, are located in the capitol building at Atlanta and that up to the time that this dispute arose, mail addressed to the comptroller general, and the comptroller general, has been delivered to their respective offices in the capitol building.

"Deliver to Capital."
"This department is without power to determine whether the Governor of the state of Georgia is vested with the authority exercised by him in removing Messrs. Harrison and Hamilton from their offices, and appointing Messrs. Carreker and Daniel, respectively. The mail in dispute, being the property of the state of Georgia, should be delivered to the state offices, in the capitol building in the same manner as prevailed prior to the arising of this dispute and until the state courts shall take action determining the title to the office or issue an injunction, the effect of which would be to require delivery of the mail to the claimants not occupying the office.

"In the event an order is issued, please promptly furnish this office with a certified copy thereof.

"It should be understood that this ruling is not to be used as a basis for money orders presented directly by any of the claimants of the involved mail. If after the delivery of the mail herein referred to, any money order is submitted for payment by the officers involved, you should decline to pay them and make further report to this office of the facts.

"The above ruling is made with the understanding that mail delivered to any officer or person not intended for him will be returned to you for proper disposition.

"I am today wiring you briefly the substance of this ruling.

"Very truly yours,
(Signed) "KARL A. CROWLEY, Solicitor."

ROBBING PETER TO PAY PAUL

The latest development in the chaotic condition into which the state government has been thrown as the result of the Governor's endeavor to assume dictatorial powers indicates that he plans, through a process of robbing Peter to pay Paul, to so juggle the state's finances as to enable him to operate the government without an appropriation act.

He continues to exercise the functions of the executive, legislative and judicial branches of the state government—in deliberate violation of the constitutional proviso that "no person discharging the duties of one shall at the same time exercise the functions of either of the other."

Under the law, the State Highway Board has the right to make accounting of its own funds and to deposit them subject to withdrawal by its own check, but the law also specifies and limits the use to which such funds can be put. Their withdrawal is not dependent upon the issuance of warrants signed by the Governor, the comptroller general and the state treasurer as in the case of the general funds deposited in the state treasury.

All told, the highway board now has on hand in the state treasury vault, taken from the Atlanta and other banks, approximately $5,000,000, of which about $1,500,000 is needed for the payment of contracts already let for road work.

If the checks for approximately $500,000 turned over to the defacto treasurer by Revenue Commissioner Doyal pass successfully through the various channels of the banks, it will mean that the Governor will have at his disposal some $5,500,000.

On March 25 the counties of the state are due by law $2,600,000 of the impounded highway funds as first payment in the 10-year series of reimbursements to them for the money they have advanced in the past for highway construction.

It was just that the counties be repaid for these advances and the action of the legislature in so directing was practically unanimous.

If this money is to be diverted for other purposes it means there will be a default to every county in the state, many of which have already made expenditures in the expectation of receiving the remittance required by law to be paid them on March 25.

If the money is not put to the purpose directed by law, but through a process of juggling, kiting and financial manipulation, never before known in the state, is put to other use, the Governor may succeed in getting together an operating fund of five million or so dollars.

But he can do so only by depriving the counties of money due them and by discontinuing all highway work, which will throw thousands of men out of employment and cause the state to fail to receive federal highway funds amounting to from fifteen to twenty million dollars.

But even so, if the Governor in his dictatorial Maypole dance succeeds in seizing all the money he can lay his hands on, it cannot possibly last more than a few months and he must face the inevitable then.

He may go on robbing Peter to pay Paul for a few months—but, unfortunately, the Peters to be robbed are the counties of the state, some of which, relying upon the state's pledge to repay the funds they have advanced, will face actual bankruptcy.

Again we say to the Governor that the only possible safe, sane and legal course for him to pursue to get the state out of the chaos into which he has thrown it is to call the general assembly together and let it solve the problem.

He should heed the opinion of the attorney-general that "the financial affairs of the state cannot be legally and constitutionally operated without an appropriation act" and that "a session of the general assembly now would relieve the tension, doubt and uncertainty and the state would function normally."

SPIKING A CANARD

The charge frequently emanating from sources outside of the south that the child labor evil is the most prevalent in this section is refuted in a statement issued by the Southern States Industrial Council.

The council points out that statistics contained in the federal census of occupations report 8 out of every 1,000 children in the northeastern states were employed in manufacturing industries in 1930, while only 5.8 were so employed in the south. Including those at work in transportation, retail trade and clerical jobs, the ratio is 14 in the northeast and 10 in the south.

Commenting upon the recent charge that pending child labor legislation in congress is necessary because of the increase in child labor in the south since invalidation of the NRA, the council asserts that "this cannot be true because with the elimination of child labor in the textile industry alone, the number of children employed in the south was reduced by about 13-14 per cent." The council continues that—

Elimination of child labor in other industries with the advent of the NRA cut the percentage down to almost nothing. If children are employed in the south today it is due to unusual circumstances in the homes that causes official permission to be given to it, or they are employed as messengers, office boys, newsmen, and in such types of occupations.

The council closes its statement with the declaration that it is "unalterably opposed to child labor and wants to refute the constant implication that the south needs regulation because of its inhuman treatment of children."

The statement succinctly states the universal position in the south with regard to child labor. Having practically eliminated it, there is no reason why this section should be used as an argument for the enactment of legislation that, in some of its phases, could be applied to the prevention of a child aiding its mother even in the slightest of household tasks.

The Meeting Continued.

Mr. Randolph Churchill, son of the famous Winston and further back a descendant of Churchill, Duke of Marlborough, is a candidate in an English by-election, up north somewhere. His opponent is the son of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald. The Manchester Guardian's report of one of the election meetings ends with this sentence: "No one else at the meeting asked Mr. Churchill any question. This prompts a correspondent of a sentence spoken by the chairman of an Orangemen's meeting in Belfast town hall. By a miracle an Orangeman rushed forward to the admittance to the meeting. Yet another miracle restrained him throughout the course of a lecture on William of Orange, the close of the meeting, the chairman, a gentle soul, asked: "Would any gentleman like to ask a question?" Then the madcap said: "I would like to ask you, William of Orange, was he a liar, a thief and a murderer?" He was immediately seized, of course, by the scandalized Orangemen around him, rushed violently for the door and thrown down the steps leading to the street. To the tune of the tumps on his head on the stones came the kindly words of the chairman: "Would any other gentleman like to ask a question?"

Murder

In Switzerland.

Wilhelm Gustloff, the chief Nazi agent in Switzerland, was assassinated by a young Jewish student, Ingemar Isidorow, in Germany, in 1935 to a fever pitch. The whole Swiss nation was held responsible for this murder. But also the Jews inside Germany, were informed that it was in their interest not to be seen on the streets. Notwithstanding, Jewish houses were attacked in numerous places. Now a murder is being reported in Switzerland. The Jewish people no service by killing someone in revenge for the inhuman treatment visited upon his co-religionists. But was it not natural to feel that something else, have been expected? After all that terror, three years long and more, one immature boy loses his mental equilibrium and takes revenge by the method followed by the Nazis themselves. Is anything more natural? Violence begets violence, it is said. The miracle is that there has been no more of it.

Tension

In the Far East.

There is, unfortunately, no sign that the tension between Manchukuo and outer Mongolia and consequently between Japan and Soviet Russia, is lessening. Fighting on the frontier is frequent. A good deal of the dispute is caused by the disputed frontier between the two states, especially in Manchukuo, a stretch of water known as Lake Baikal. This frontier has never been defined. A Japanese map published in 1932 showed the frontier entirely in Mongolia. A later map published by the Japanese military survey shows the frontier running through the middle of the lake, while the latest map, published in 1935, shows the frontier running through the lake entirely in Manchukuo. This is the way it went, precisely, with Walwal in Ethiopia. My map, which is an Italian specimen, puts that boundary far into the Abyssinian territory, but that map was subsequently repudiated conclusively. Troops are now said to be moving toward the frontier, and sides in that mysterious far eastern country. Japanese troops and Russian troops. That is a bad sign. When so many rifles come together, it is as liable to go off by themselves. But that it will come to war now is not likely. Ultimately a war in that part of the world seems inevitable, but not yet. May we will see. Before that time a conference may be held and the frontier lines settled. Russia has given many indications of willingness to make another compromise in the interest of peace seems to be the happiest thing that could occur now.

BISSEXTILE.

Aha! Bissextille. Leap year! Where does it leap from? Whence and why? In the Julian computation a day was added to February every fourth year; but in the Gregorian calendar, the 29th, the 24th day of the month was counted twice (bis), and as that day was the sixth (sexies) before the calends of March, it was called bissextile.

start in to unravel this question of how we got our calendar, you are in for some very interesting reading. It involves the adjustment of minutes, weeks and days, even a flitting minutes and seconds, of the flitting year to the natural year. The moon supplied a natural and very obvious mode of dividing and reckoning time, hence the division into months of 29 or 30 days was, perhaps, the earliest form of a calendar. Then it was found that seasons had to be reckoned with, thus arose divisions into years, determined by the motions of the sun.

All sorts of conflicts arose, due to the fact that the year, based on the motion of the sun, did not contain an exact number of the smaller divisions of time which were discovered in a comparison of the lunar month and solar year. The Egyptians had a year composed of 365 days, divided into 12 months of 30 days each, with five superfluous days at the end of the year. The Jewish year consisted of 12 lunar months, a 13th month being added from time to time to accommodate the time between the equinoxes and the solstices. The Greeks had 12 months for their year, occasionally introducing an intercalary month, Julius Caesar finally gave us the Julian calendar, working in an extra day in February every four years as the simplest method of dealing with the extra amount of time, which is in reality 5 hours, 48 minutes and 46 seconds. Pope Gregory XIII made a slight revision of 1582, which is too intricate to describe in this restricted space.

All of which fails to come to the main point regarding Leap Year, you are no doubt saying. With reference to a certain legend about Leap Year, when the bachelors are warned to "keep to the tail timber, etc., I prefer to leave final deductions on that highly involved subject to the wise heads and more judicious commentators. If I were to venture too much in that realm, someone might suggest changing the title of my little column to Good Night!

Moliere.

Seized with sickness while playing the principal role in his play, "The Imaginary Invalid," Jean Baptiste Poqueline, known as Moliere, refused in 1673 to believe he was seriously ill and went on with the performance until he was dead. Because he was an actor as well as France's greatest dramatist ("Tartuffe," etc.), Moliere could not give Christian burial and had to be buried in an unmarked grave. No one knows where it is today.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY PAUL MALLON.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—It is popular now to say that winter has been wrong with business lately. The weather. The current economic picture is supposed to be right outside your window—under the snow.

The accepted theory is that few persons buy autos when the roads are covered with ice. Few go any farther than necessary beyond the corner grocery in the snow and mud covering most of the United States, off and on, during the last 60 days.

It is a sound theory, but the point of it melts perceptibly in the glare of a monthly balanced business chart.

Weather damage to one industry has been offset statistically by weather benefits to another. While autos, general sales and building activity have been hurt, coal, railroads and winter goods have been helped.

The sum total of it is that nature has complicated everything, but the net national effect is nearly negative.

THE SCALES

To see how nature even up, look into the net effect of the improvement on railroads alone.

The increased demands for consumer coal naturally caused the railroads to haul more of it, but also caused the railroads to use more of it. This may explain the item carried the other day in a financial journal indicating that the net loss of an outstanding coal-carrying road was probably as great this January as last, despite the increased traffic.

But the railroads took advantage of the lull in auto demand for steel. They placed a few big steel orders which kept the steel business from suffering at all from the cold.

STATUS

All this leaves us today just about where we were when the full bulge lifted up last October. Industrial production will average this month about 95 per cent of normal, the same as last October. The other important indices are also near their October levels, as you will see from the following chart.

Note—All figures represent percentages of normality existing at the times designated, with normal being computed as the 1923-25 averages for everything except prices, which are based on 1926. Seasonal variations have been eliminated, so that the figures do not indicate the volume of business but only the relationship of the volume to normal.

BUMP

The few sharp decreases in January and February percentages mean only a statistical reaction from an abnormal December. They really do not reflect any general change of business trend.

What happened was that the statistically influential automobile industry produced heavily during December and January instead of in the spring. So also with building contracts. The law required the government to let a lot of contracts in December and January, when few contracts are awarded ordinarily.

November-December-January figures really represent a statistical bump rather than any accumulation of muscle or fat.

AUTOS

The weather has brought some hesitation within the automobile industry. As soon as the roads clear up, they will get a good test of what kind of market to expect. Production then can be planned more intelligently. No one knows any more than that about it now.

The extent to which production has dropped is shown by unit production of 408 for December and 367 for January, while February was figured unofficially a few days ago around 265. That would put February under a year ago, when the figure was 336.

SHORT GLANCES

Every major index of business for January and February (except autos) will be above those of a year ago.

Officials are worried about the employment decrease during the last 60 days, which may turn out to be larger than indicated in the chart.

Steel business insiders do not know whether all the good things coming their way mean a permanent turn or a fictitious one. All kinds of machinery business is taking steel now, and structural steel orders have picked up.

Good estimates about what to expect in the building pick-up are hard to get. The volume will be much higher than last year, but there is an increasing question about a building boom. One trouble seems to be that building costs are not in line with rental returns.

Publicly-financed contracts awarded in 1935 amounted to 55 per cent of the total of all contracts awarded.

A national real estate group recently put out the most optimistic statement of conditions it has been able to offer since the collapse. It surveyed 257 cities and found real estate prices rising in 60 per cent, sales increasing in 85 per cent and two out of three cities reported a shortage of single-family dwellings.

SILHOUETTES

BY RALPH T. JONES.

Dear little daughter of mine,

Now that you've entered your teens,

You'll be trying, soon, to define

Life, and what everything means.

You'll soon be a lady full grown—

Eighteen, or some great age—

You'll know just all to be known,

The wisdom of thinker and sage.

But, dearest, I want you to know,

Where'er you may go, or may be,

When life begins getting you low,

You can always share troubles with me.

Poor Payers.

Wasn't it forty or fifty years ago that an Atlanta silversmith sold to the state of Georgia a most gorgeous set of silver for the officer's mess of the U. S. S. Georgia? And yet, that set of silver, though the truth be told, has long been relegated to the scrap heap, he has never been paid for his goods?

Now comes to light a parallel case, according to a story in the autobiography of Ralph Adams Cram, an architect, which has been published by Little, Brown & Company at Boston.

According to Mr. Cram, who was one of the architects who designed the buildings for the United States Military Academy at West Point, a bill for architectural services on that job, though now nearly thirty years old, has never been paid and, he adds, hope of collecting it has just about been abandoned.

A bill, says Mr. Cram, has been introduced in congress to give these architects their claims, but it has never been acted upon, and he adds, "it probably never will."

Promises Were Fair.

The original act of congress under which the military academy buildings were constructed, says Mr. Cram, provided that the architects' successful in the competition should be paid three and one-half per cent of the cost of the work; in addition, the government was to appoint one member of the firm "supervising architect" at a salary of $5,000 per year, and to pay the office expenses incurred in the operation, the supervising architect was to be paid five per cent, which was then the recognized charge for full professional services.

Actually, according to Mr. Cram, no member of his firm was ever made consulting architect, so no salary was drawn. Under a new contract the firm was promised five per cent on the cost of the work, but in the final accounting, after one administration had succeeded another, the architects' bill was returned with a curt statement that it would not be paid. The explanation "forfeiture of contract" was given, and the bill was returned with the signature of the secretary of war was not happen again.

FAIR ENOUGH

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Hitler's PRAHA, Czechoslovakia,

Feb. 28.—The capacity of Hitler's Ku Klux Klan is not exaggerated, but the fact remains that the bravest people in Germany are excluded from the Klan. It takes very little courage to join a racket whose members enjoy the right to cheat and rob the non-members, but the man who defies the mob does so knowing that the mob will break him, persecute him and his family, and perhaps kill him.

Of course, the Jews receive the worst hammering, because Hitler is constantly inciting his hoodlums to chase them up alleys, but the Jews have no decision in the matter. But there are thousands of brave, stubborn Germans, Protestant as well as Catholics, who had every chance to enjoy the protection and the looting privileges which the swastika confers and refused to surrender their principles.

This took physical courage far beyond that which is required of a corner loafer or neighborhood politician raiding a darkened home in the dead of night. It also asked for moral bravery of an even finer kind. For this type of dissenter, as German as beer and as patriotic as old Bismarck himself, understands full well that he will be classified as a traitor to his country.

Trial

This man that he may be tried before a court of neighbors on a charge of treason on the land he loves and shot or locked up for the rest of his life without a chance to clear his name. That is the maximum risk, but at the very least he loses his job or his business and is ostracized by fair weather friends who may secretly admire him but haven't the courage to give him the slightest comfort.

The keeps his liberty his light is a lonely one, because if he tries to leave the companionship of other dissidents some spy will report that they are plotting treason, and the Gestapo will come and get him in the night.

All this is bad enough, but the test of character is even worse torture if he has a family, because his wife and children will be made to suffer, too. His wife, of course, is doomed to spend the rest of her life cut off from the normal friendships and social relations of her station, and the children find themselves banished from the playgrounds of the Nazi kids whose pleasures, like those of the little Italian Baillia, are entirely wretched.

Thus, in organizing the new Germany, Hitler has drawn heavily on the ranks of the mediocrities and cowards who fight only in packs and automatically denied themselves the company of the most courageous people in the land.

It would be foolish to suggest that all Nazis are yellow, although they include all the front-runners in the country, but the highest courage ever will be called upon to display cannot compare to that of the true German who deliberately chose to defy them, knowing what a lonely, miserable fight he was in for.

Many Disappear.

There are more up stream fish in Germany than you would be likely to suspect, but individuals among their number disappear quietly into their graves or concentration camps, and the rebels themselves have no way of determining how numerous they are, although Hitler probably knows.

It takes one kind of courage to go to war in regiments wearing the badges of patriotism, but a better kind to stick it out alone for a principle, deprived of citizenship, reviled as a traitor and subject to night raids by the lowest members of the community. Sometimes their courage fails and they surrender, and when that happens they are quietly sent to the end of their endurance.

They had an occasion of this kind a few months ago when a Nazi, Streicher, made his fortune publishing obscene literature in the guise of a patriotic campaign against the Jews, presided at a dinner for political prisoners who had just been released. There were brave and patriotic Germans seated all around him, whose health and determination had finally eroded in prison, but Streicher rose and, in the role of super-patriot, patronizingly offered to provide railroad fare and passports to Russia for all who wanted to go there.

And the fact that none of the brave accepted Streicher's offer was interpreted to mean mainly that 1,500 communists had just been beaten into submission.

Heroic

It is perfectly plain that most of the Nazis are Nazis because they are afraid to hold out, and the odor of suspicion and fear pervades their whole life. They are afraid of one another, afraid of the police, afraid of the Gestapo, and they give up money in fear to a hundred rackets as the collectors sweep in uniform, with their switch blades, their left arm, rattling the cup and thundering the challenge "Heil, Hitler!"

Nobody likes to ask what is done with the money, but there is a Nazi commissioner in Munich who is driving a horseback six years ago. Of course, as in any racket, the boss has to take his chances, and it is possible that they may have him up in a burlap sack some night and drop him into a grave as they did with "Furber" of the mob the night of the big purge.

It is a strange method, Hitler's. He's reduced his people to trembling cowardice. He's made them afraid to submit to a few hoodlums and organized a government combining the methods of the Ku Klux and Al Capone.

SECRETARY HULL LAUDS

F. D. R. 'NEIGHBOR' IDEA

Cabinet Member Urges 'Mutual Sympathy' for Nations of Americas.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(P)—Secretary Hull urged the nations of the Americas tonight to set an example to a troubled world by adopting "mutual sympathy, fair dealings and constructive co-operation" as guide in their international relationships.

In a radio address, the secretary of state hailed a new era of friendship solidified between the United States and Latin American countries which he said has resulted from President Roosevelt's "good neighbor" policy.

"The speech, prepared by Hull, was read by Undersecretary William Phillips when Hull found it impossible to keep the speaking engagement."

Only recently the President proposed to the heads of all the Latin American republics the convening of an inter-American conference to consider means of safeguarding peace in the western hemisphere. A date for the meeting, to be held at Buenos Aires, is expected to be set soon.

Secretary Hull referred to this in asserting that the President's action has been cordially received.

America's Opportunity.

The chaotic economic conditions and the threat to peace in many other quarters of the world," he said, "accord an opportunity. I believe, to the peoples of the Americas with their common interests and common aspirations, to set an example to the world in establishing mutual sympathy, fair dealing and constructive co-operation as the guiding principles of their international conduct."

The United States, Hull said, has proceeded toward this objective with a three-point program designed to promote better understanding among the nations of this hemisphere, assist in the maintenance and construction toward the elimination of artificial barriers to Inter-American trade.

"It is my unqualified opinion," he continued, "that it will prove successful in helping to inaugurate a new era of permanent friendliness, understanding and co-operation. The acts of this profession of our policy."

Enumerates Acts.

He enumerated these acts as America's brokering of the Platt amendment by which Cuba was given the right to intervene in the internal affairs of Cuba; withdrawals of the last marines from Haiti; negotiations for a new treaty with Panama; cooperation in the arbitration of the Chaco peace settlements between Bolivia and Paraguay and the furtherance of the United States policy in programs in Central and South America.

"The policy of the 'good neighbor' among the Americas," he said, "is no longer a hope—no longer an objective—it is a reality, vital, active and effective."

LONGINO IS ATTACKED IN SPEECH BY BARRETT

Vote in Pharr Fee Case Is Cited by Commission Candidate.

Ellis B. Barrett, candidate for county commissioner, made a sensational address at the Home Park school in the eighth ward last night. He devoted most of his attention to Commissioner George Longino, dwelling on the fact that Longino has specifically and by authorization of his own vote empowered County Attorney Pharr to collect the taxing fee, which Longino is now assailing him for doing.

Barrett charged that at a recent political rally he had charged that Longino as commissioner had voted to pay Pharr a fee for collecting Seaboard Air Line taxes. He said that Longino had denied that he had ever so voted. Barrett produced a certified copy of the minutes of the board of county commissioners, verifying his statement, showing that Longino had voted for the resolution of authorization. It was certified that Ralph H. Pharr was authorized to deduct 15 per cent of the amount of the Seaboard Air Line tax collection as fees for his services, and the certified copy specified that Longino seconded the motion of Johnson to pay Ralph Pharr this fee, and Barrett called upon Longino to explain why he denied paying this fee, and why he had not brought this matter to the attention of the public. This was not brought before the public because this happened in 1935, a year in which no election was close at hand.

Barrett stated that after it was well known that he was to be a candidate for county commissioner, and after Longino and Ragdale knew that he, Barrett, intended to condemn the practice of paying the county attorney this fee, that they immediately went to the newspapers with the same in order to gain public sympathy, and for no other purpose. He stated that Longino had previously voted to pay the fee in the Seaboard Air Line case.

Barrett read from the grand jury presentments of the September-October grand jury in which the practice of selling automobiles to the county and county employees by a commissioner was condemned. This referred, he asserted, to Ragdale, he said, is an automobile dealer. He also read from the grand jury presentments where they condemned money lent to employees of the county by a

Leap Year Originated By Egyptian Sun God

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Tomorrow is Leap Year Day and that old friend of crossword puzzles—Ra, the Egyptian sun god—had a lot to do with it.

The ancient pyramids once were used to measure the length of the sun-induced year. Their shadows were shortest at noon at the end of the 365-day year, now February 28.

Once every four years, Egyptian mathematicians found, there was no shadow. They did not know a solar year actually contains 365.24 days and that the pyramid shadows therefore were not exactly accurate.

To calculate the extra time more easily, a day was added to every fourth year.

Commissioner; this, he asserted, applied to Commissioner Longino. The grand jury had said:

"The thing we wish to impress is that a commissioner should not deal with the county where there is an interest directly or indirectly involved."

Barrett stated that if he was elected, he would never be directly or indirectly a beneficiary of a pecuniary interest in any matter where the county was involved.

All candidates or their representatives were present at the Home Park school meeting.

They had been invited to speak Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Highland school, 978 Highland avenue, by A. C. Corbett, candidate for clerk of the superior court, whose friends are sponsoring the rally.

The aspirants will speak in Al. pharetta this afternoon at the old court house.

Commissioner J. A. Ragdale, accused by Barrett of selling automobiles to the county while a member of the county board, offered to give Barrett $5,000 and get out of the race if the mayor pro tem could prove his charge.

This offer was made by Harold Sheats, East Point city attorney, who spoke for Ragdale, who is suffering from a throat ailment caused by campaign speaking.

Sheats pointed out that Commissioner Edwin Johnson himself had introduced a resolution at a regular county commission meeting absolving Ragdale of any suspicion that he had ever sold an automobile to the county.

Commissioner George F. Longino spoke and recited the tremendous efforts he and Ragdale have made during the last year to prevent extravagant spending by the majority faction. He cited his record of four years as county commissioner to prove his efficiency and ability as a public servant.

Lawyer Sheats said Barrett was a member of a city council during the greatest graft of the decade but had never raised his voice against it. He praised Ragdale for his courage and loyalty in refusing to accept the commission chairmanship with strings tied to it.

COMPANIES ASK TEST OF UTILITY MEASURE

Constitutionality of Guffey
Coal Law Is Again Attacked.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—A test of the constitutionality of the public utility holding company act—bitter issue of the last session of congress—was sought today in the supreme court.

The Public Utility Investing Corporation and the Associated Utilities Corporation asked an injunction restraining the Utilities Power & Light Corporation of Virginia from complying with the act and citing the recent TVA decision as the basis for their appeal.

Meanwhile litigants defeated in that decision—in which the court ruled that the government has constitutional authority to sell surplus power produced at Wilson dam—asked a rehearing and the court received a renewed assault upon the validity of the Guffey coal act.

In seeking a test of the holding company law, denied in two lower courts, the petitioning companies asserted the TVA decision sustained "the proposition that compliance with an unconstitutional statute results in a deprivation of rights guaranteed by the constitution, and that, such deprivation, and not merely pecuniary loss, is a criterion of irreparable injury."

The petition for a rehearing of the TVA case said the federal government cannot itself operate a permanent commercial business on local distribution consistently with the limitations of the constitution.

The constitutionality of the Guffey law to regulate the soft coal industry by "little NRA" was challenged in a brief filed by James Walter Carter, West Virginia and Virginia coal operator. Arguments on the validity of the act will be heard by the court March 11.

VANDENBERG CHARGES 'PILLAGING' OF FUNDS

Letter Shows Workers Were Asked To Contribute to Democratic Campaign.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The federal relief administration was asked today to investigate "in the name of political decency" whether relief workers are being "pillaged" in the states for democratic campaign contributions in return for jobs.

Senator Vandenberg, republican, Michigan, sought the inquiry in a communication to Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator.

The senator called attention to a full-page reproduction in the Butler, Pa. Eagle, of a letter he said purported to show "democratic solicitation of campaign funds from relief workers on penalty of blacklist in event of refusal."

The letter was dated December 4, 1935, and signed by Harry W. Fea, chairman of the Indiana county democratic committee. It was written on the letterhead of that organization and addressed to Mary C. Shearer, of the "emergency relief area."

It expressed surprise that Miss Shearer had not responded to a previous letter requesting a $25 contribution to the committee. The writer was "sure that you appreciated your position to such an extent that you would make this contribution willingly and promptly."

If the donation was not quickly forthcoming, the letter added, Miss Shearer's name would be put on a list of "those who will not be given consideration for any other appointment" when emergency relief work ended.

She was asked to address her check to A. Lucille Baun, committee treasurer, at Indiana.

Vandenberg wrote that "inasmuch as the amount of contribution is filled in, what otherwise is obviously a form letter, it would appear a reasonable deduction that this pillage is a general practice."

WOMAN EXONERATED OF SLAYING HUSBAND

Mrs. Albert Gray Given
Freedom After Recorder's Court Hearing.

Weeping intermittently during the arraignment, Mrs. Albert C. Gray, wife of a former veterans bureau utility officer, was discharged yesterday by Recorder W. C. Callaway on charges of disorderly conduct, murder.

The charges against Mrs. Gray were the result of the fatal stabbing of her husband with a butcher knife in the kitchen of their home at 839 Rose circle early Wednesday morning. The courtroom was crowded with women spectators.

Mrs. Hoyt Love, daughter of Mrs. Gray, and a witness to the tragedy, told the court of a quarrel which ended in the stabbing, as her mother sobbed audibly.

According to the daughter, Gray came into the kitchen on the morning of the slaying and grabbed a coffee pot from her hands. He then slapped her on the ear, she continued, and a scuffle followed when her mother came to her aid.

This testimony was generally substantiated by their son, Albert Jr., 12 years old. The hearing lasted about 45 minutes.

REYNOLDS RITES TO BE HELD TODAY

Newspaperman, Constitution Employee, To Be Buried in Barnesville.

With his former newspaper associates acting as pallbearers and honorary escorts, funeral services for Walter Reynolds Sr., former telegraph editor of The Constitution for many years, and later an employee of Hearst's Georgian and Sunday American, will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at St. Luke's Episcopal church.

The Rev. John Moore Walker will officiate. Following the rites here the body will be taken to Barnesville, Ga., for burial.

Mr. Reynolds served The Constitution for 20 years. Prior to that time he had been associated with various other southern papers. At one time he was cited as the best headline writer in the United States.

He had been in failing health for several months and had been seriously ill for only a week. He resided at 25 Inman circle, N. E.

Mr. Reynolds was a native of Barnesville, but he had resided in Atlanta for more than 30 years. He was a former vestryman of the Cathedral of St. Philip.

MISSING FARMER FOUND IN LAKE

Submerged Auto Yields
Body of Macon County
Man.

MONTEZUMA, Ga., Feb. 28.—The body of Thomas Murray, 30, Macon county farmer who had been missing since February 12 from his home near here, was found today in his submerged car in 14 feet of water in White-water pond, four miles from Oglethorpe, and one mile from his home. An inquest held by Coroner James E. Hayes rendered a verdict of "accidental drowning."

Oil on the pond's surface was noticed by residents of the section, who reported the discovery to Sheriff W. T. Jolly, of Macon county. The body was recovered when the car was dragged from the lake.

Funeral services were held at his home this afternoon. Interment was in the Oglethorpe cemetery.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. David Murray, and brother, Earl, of Oglethorpe, and a sister, Ruth, a teacher at Altamaha.

The Or V'Shalom congregation of the Spanish Jewish community formally installed David J. Ajoelo as president at special exercises recently held at the synagogue, in commemoration of Washington's birthday.

The children of the congregation's Hebrew school participated in the program, which was featured by vocal selections of Morris Amato and a violin solo by Moreno Cohen.

Besides Mr. Ajoelo, others to take the oath of office, administered by Rabbi Joseph I. Cohen, were Leon Notrica, vice president; Rabano Galanti, treasurer; Moreno Cohen, general secretary; Miss Becky Hime, corresponding secretary; Victor Benveniste, general director; Victor D. Franco, director of the Hebrew school; Jacob Ajoelo, director of social welfare; Moreno Benveniste, official collector; Morris Capouano, chair-

McAdoo and Glass Differ On Tax-Raising Measure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Two former secretaries of the treasury and little argument today as to how to raise new taxes.

Senator McAdoo, democrat, California, seeing Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, approaching in a capitol corridor, suggested a 1-cent tax on all newspapers.

Glass, a newspaper publisher, indignantly rejected the proposal.

"You couldn't raise a cent that way," he retorted. "You would drive every newspaper out of business."

"Oh! I was only joking," McAdoo replied.

"You suggested that because I just voted down in committee $30,000,000 of the taxpayers' money for Los Angeles," Glass retorted.

He explained later that his reference to the $30,000,000 was not serious, that he was only kidding the California senator.

COURT DECISION SEEN IN REYNOLDS' ESTATE

Judge Indicates He Will Rule on Tangle Prior to March 15.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Circuit Court Judge Eli Frank today took under advisement the family settlement of the $300,000,000 Smith Reynolds estate and indicated he would give his decision prior to March 15.

Hearings in the case were concluded today. Counsel in the case asked the Maryland court to approve the settlement already approved by the North Carolina courts.

The issue came to Maryland's courts because the Safe Deposit & Trust Company, Baltimore, concern, is trustee for the estate. The company asked approval of the North Carolina settlement before carrying out its terms.

Before he took the case under consideration, Judge Frank said he was "bothered" by the possible rights of present unborn heirs to all or portions of the estate. He made it plain, however, that he was not suggesting an alternative settlement to the one submitted to the court.

"My only difficulty concerns the power of this court of equity to approve an arrangement which extinguishes all further rights of interest by children who may be born in the future to collateral claimants of the estate," the judge said.

The settlement provides for payment of approximately $2,000,000 in inheritance taxes to the state of North Carolina. Other terms are:

To Smith Reynolds' brother and two sisters, 37 1/2 per cent.

To Anne Cannon Reynolds II, Reynolds' daughter by his first wife, 37 1/2 per cent.

To Christopher Smith Reynolds, Reynolds' posthumous son, by Libby Holman Reynolds, his second wife, 25 per cent.

To Libby Holman Reynolds, $750,000 from the share of the brother and sisters of Smith Reynolds.

Tech Upsets Vandy, 42-37--Georgia Loses to Auburn, 46-23

Georgia Tech's high-geared sophomores swept those Vanderbilt right out of the southeastern basketball tournament yesterday to remain as the state's representative, Georgia being eliminated by Auburn, the friendly neighbor.

As a consequence there will be a sort of exodus from Georgia Tech today. As many as can will move on up to witness the Jackets in their struggle tonight.

There is no telling about Roy Mundorff's sophomores. They may do great things. They took out a team which twice had defeated them when they took those Vanderbilts for a ride, leading all the way.

They did it with Ben Jones, the Canton Cannon-ader, out of the game. He was wounded in the heel like the late Achilles. With him out, it was thought the Techs would be lost. But they stepped on the gas a bit harder and beat one of the two teams favored to win the title.

The Jackets merit a great hand from their supporters no matter what they accomplish tonight. And they may win the tournament. They are sophomores and sophomores never know themselves what they will do.

This Tech team should be one of those great teams by 1937. The sophomores are learning fast. Roy Mundorff deserves a real salute for his job.

It was Josh Cody's farewell at Vanderbilt. He left last night for Gainesville, Fla., where Monday he will take over the Gator spring practice. Reports from Florida are that he and Lewie Hardage already are very popular there.

Which is just what every one expected.

X MARKS THE SPOT.

Jimmy (Twenty Grand) Slocum, one of the best pass catching ends Georgia Tech has had, drove in yesterday from Macon. He is assistant football coach and head basketball coach at Mercer.

His car, a large touring model, showed signs of wear and tear. There was sand on the floor.

"Went all over Florida," he said, "and carried seven of us in this car. (It is a 5-passenger car.) That was six basketball players and me. We made a long and arduous tour."

"Where did the seventh man sit?" asked Mr. William Alexander, of Tech.

"Well, sometimes he sat on his imagination and sometimes on the laps of the other players. The seventh man was never the same. Three of us sat in the front seat and four on the rear seat. We had a time."

"We ran into a lot of funny gymnasiums, assorted shapes and sizes," said Jimmy Slocum. "And one of them was a show."

"Those country boys had little cross marks on the gym floor. And on the backboard were other marks. We noticed them and couldn't figure it out. But we did pretty soon."

"Those boys had practiced for years in that gym. They had favorite spots from which they couldn't miss. They'd just fire the ball for that spot on the backboard and if it came anywhere near it, the angle was just right for it to drop in the basket."

"Every time they got the ball, they'd dribble to one of the X marks on the floor and let fly. They knew their way about that gym blindfolded."

"X marked the spot, eh?" said Mr. Alexander.

"Yeah, where our basketball body was found," said Slocum.

THE CHICKEN-WIRE BACKBOARD.

"You should have seen the old gym at Auburn," said Mr. Alexander.

"They had a chicken wire backboard for one of the baskets. (Editor's note—It is very difficult to top Mr. Alexander in any story.)"

"When they had that basket, they'd make about 35 points. There was a little secret to it. The ball had to be slammed into that wire at a high speed. When it was thrown hard enough, it bent in the wire just enough to make the ball stop dead and fall into the basket. The team that threw it up there easy as they do against a wooden backboard, didn't have a chance. The visiting team didn't have much of a chance."

"We played in one gym," said Jimmy Slocum, "where there was a fence just back of the basket at each end of the gym. When our men tried to get the

LATOUR TO STUDY JAPANESE SETUP

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The effect of the military uprising in Tokyo upon Japan's bid for the 1940 Olympic games was a subject of speculation in American athletic circles today, coincident with the arrival in New York of Count Henri LaTour, of Belgium, president of the international Olympic committee, en route to the orient.

Count LaTour, while avoiding any comment upon the present situation in Japan or its possible effect on Olympic developments, told the Associated Press: "I have no intention of putting off my visit to Japan."

Count LaTour is going to Japan primarily to obtain information bearing upon Japan's arrangements, already well formulated, to conduct the winter as well as summer sports in 1940. He will report to the I. O. C. this summer at Berlin, where a definite decision will be made on the next site of the international games.

While he did not say so, Count LaTour's visit to the far east, in view of latest developments, likely will be of more far-reaching importance than was anticipated.

As matters stand now, Tokyo's chances of landing the next Olympics are rivaled mainly by the bid of Helsinki, capital of Finland, American officials understand growing opposition has developed among European countries to the idea of undertaking another long distance athletic trek.

Finland has proposed as a means of gaining support, that the 1940 winter sports be awarded to Oslo, Norway, with the main events taking place at Helsinki in the summer.

Cronin's 'Prima Donnas' Hold League Spotlight

Other Managers More Worried About Situation Than Red Sox Skipper, It Seems.

By Eddie Brietz.

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The rest of the American league is having a fine old time speculating on how young Joe Cronin is going to get along with his crew of 1936 "prima donnas."

"Sure, Joe's got the ball players," is the whisper going around some of the rival camps, "but how's he going to handle em? That's a fancy-priced crew. Some of those fellows have notions of their own about things. You just wait and see."

Last year the Red Sox sported such celebrities as left-handed Moses Grove and Wes and Rick Ferrell, to say nothing of the fleet, but temperamental Bill Werber.

This season no less than $400,000 worth of new talent has been added in Jimmy Foss, Johnny Marcum, Roger Cramer and Eric McNair, all first-water stars even if they did come from the last-place Athletics.

What's going to happen with all these high-salaried performers on one ball club?

The question seems to be bothering some of the other managers much more than Cronin, to whose lot falls the training and direction of the menagerie.

It rained in Sarasota today and there was little doing at the ball orchard. So Joe took time out to send word to the other managers to have their sympathy, if any, for their own ball clubs, which may need it a lot more than the Red Sox.

"I'm not doing any worrying about temperament and opera star tactics until I find them," he said.

The first man to get in a uniform and begin throwing the ball around in and rain this morning was a tall southpaw with gray-streaked hair named Grove, who is credited in the averages with 20 wins last season.

And in the clubhouse another tall young man with broad shoulders was introducing himself to a rookie pitcher named Manuel Salvo, just arrived from the Cubs.

"Don't believe I've met you," said the tall young man. "My name is Wes Ferrell. I can be of any help to you, just let me know."

Just go over there, take it easy and be yourself," he finished, as the delighted Salvo stammered his thanks.

None of these escaped the eagle eye of Rose Cronin.

"If that's prima donna stuff, give me some more of it," he said.

It won 45 ball games for us last year and with Foss, Cramer and McNair in there, that pair may be good for more this season.

"Now let me tell you about this Foss. He's a real home body. But he's asked permission to report Monday, I suppose that's temperament, too. I know McNair, Cramer and Marcum to be bustling ball players who want to win. They'll fit nicely into our outfit. As I say, I like prima donnas like that. The other clubs might let me know if they're overloaded."

Notes of the Red Sox: Joe Cronin is lighter than last year and looks fit after winter baseball in California. Guessing here is, he'll be back on short. . . . Oscar Melillo showed up a week ahead of schedule. . . . Special to Benatone: The Messrs. Ferrell arrived today. The boys allowed as how they had just come down by another route. . . . Old Bing Miller almost as spry as ever and wanting to know who's going to get the right field job away from him. . . . The Sox have two fine looking cubs in Stewart Bowers and Walter Ripley, both right-handed pitchers. . . . Lefty Grove, supposed to have received the fattest pay increase of any American leaguer, has set 25 victories as his goal this year. Last season he pulled for 20—and got them.

Warren, Tide Soph, Fractures His Leg

UNIVERSITY, Ala., Feb. 28.—(AP)—"Tut" Warren, of Montgomery, a graduate of Sidney Lanier High school, suffered a fracture of a small bone in his right leg yesterday during spring football training at the University of Alabama.

Warren, an end, was considered a good sophomore prospect this fall, and may recover sufficiently to give a good account of himself.

The Druid City hospital, where he was taken for treatment, said he was resting well. The leg has been put in a plaster cast.

HYDE WINS.

NASSAU, Bahamas, Feb. 28.—(AP)—W. H. Hyde, of New York, today won the Bahamas open golf tournament, defeating John Creighton, of Nassau, 5 and 3, in the 18-hole final.

JACKETS LEAD AT HALF, 29-18, IN GREAT GAME

Volts, Wildcats, Tigers and Tide Enter Semi-Finals.

By Jack Troy.

ALUMNI MEMORIAL GYMNASIUM, KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 28.—Georgia Tech's Gold and White basketball team, playing faultlessly to eliminate the top-seeded Vanderbilt Commodores today, will enter the semifinals of the Southeastern basketball tournament tomorrow night at 8 o'clock against Alabama at the Alabama battle.

The Commodores, who were seeded Vanderbilt today, will enter the semifinals of the Southeastern basketball tournament tomorrow night at 8 o'clock against Alabama at the Alabama battle.

Basketball men have pointed out that the Jackets, who made up largely of sophomore material, need only to get past their first game to make them one of the most dangerous entries in the tournament.

Coch Roy Mundorff has been doing everything possible to have Ben Jones ready for the Alabama battle. He has a bad stone bruise and there is no way to tell whether he will be sufficiently recovered.

Coch Roy Mundorff's Jackets, playing with a coolness and precision that amazed a large crowd in the University of Tennessee gymnasium, eliminated Vandy, 42 to 37.

JORDAN STARS.

It was the magnificent play of Bill Jordan, Burtz Boulevard, Bo Johnston and Ed Jones that Tech rattled the ranks of the Commodores in the first half. Boulevard and Johnston both had three personal fouls in the last half, but while they remained in the game, Vandy was powerless.

Whack Hyder and Fletcher Sims entered the game for Tech and kept the home fires burning. The giant Plasmann was Vandy's outstanding threat as the game wore on. He shot 7 points to keep the Commodores fairly close, but not close enough.

IN TOP FORM.

You may get a very clear idea as to the way the Tech team was playing at the start. At one time, for instance, it had a lead of 18 to 9. The ball then dropped to Tech, leading 20 to 18. Jordan and Boulevard, working the ball, shot goals from all angles. Johnston got the tip at center and Tech had the ball most of the time. Boulevard, Jordan and Ed Jones got the ball off the backboard in an amazing fashion.

As a strictly defensive guard, Caldwell was one of the best on the floor.

The pace was fast. Tech players moved in smoothly to meet passes, feinted, passed and binged—points. And all this, mind you, in the absence of Ben Jones, the Canton sharpshooter, who was held on the bench because of a painful stone bruise on his heel.

CROWD FOR TECH.

It was very cheering indeed to hear the large crowd pull for Tech from start to finish.

There was so much Jacket enthusiasm that it was not hard to imagine the game as being played at the naval armory.

It seemed a bit of a tragedy for Josh Cody, the big man who traveled two states by train to join the Commodores today. It was in 1927 that Cody was going to Clemson as head coach that he last won a conference title.

And so history cannot repeat for one of the best-coached in the south. He realized at the half, however, that the Commodores, who were too much for his boys today.

GREAT YOUNG TEAM.

The downfall of Vandy may be attributed to the prowess of Tech. The Jackets are a young team and may falter along the way in this tournament but at the present time there is no reason to think they are faltering.

Jordan's 15 points topped the scores. Boulevard and Ed Jones shot 8 and 7, respectively. Johnston made two sensational one-handed pivot shots and a foul goal.

Big Plasmann, as mentioned, was continually trying to single the Jackets' wings, so to speak. Great as the pivot shot, he got four goals that way, all in the last half. Altogether, he accounted for 13 points.

Kayo Overly was ejected from the game in the first half for personal fouls and the offensive burden rested on Plasmann and Coleman. The latter had 8 points.

GENY NOT RIGHT.

Captain Willie Genny, first guard, was not up to scratch. He has been a real thorn to Tech in both football and basketball, but today the Jackets were much too hot for him.

Randy Johnson, who played well for Vandy while he was in the game. He was used as a sub for Plasmann.

It was a great upset. And a couple of Tennessee boys, playing for Tech, had a lot to do with it. They were Jordan and Sims, both from Chattanooga.

Coach Rex Enright, of the Georgia Bulldogs, who were defeated by Auburn, 43 to 26, in the opening game, paid tribute to the Jackets' play.

"It's a great combination," Enright said, "and I would not be surprised to see the boys go far in the tournament."

LONG-RANGE SHOTS.

The uncanny long-range marksmanship of Joe Bob McDermott, of Auburn, stars, proved the downfall of the Georgia Bulldogs in the opening game of the tournament.

It was a rather strange game. And there is apparently no explanation for it in basketball. For virtually the entire first half, Georgia dominated the play. The Bulldogs played a smooth floor game and held a fairly good lead, mainly on the strength of points made from the foul line.

A couple of minutes before the first half ended, however, Eares, Callee and Mitchell started hitting the basket from long range and before the timer's gun exploded, Auburn was leading, 14 to 11

LEAF BILL APPROVAL IS SEEN IN CAROLINA

Gov. Ehringhaus Seeks to Learn Sentiment of Growers.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Governor Olin Johnston said today he had assurances from legislative delegates who attended a regional tobacco conference that the South Carolina legislature would enact crop control measures to become effective when other states did likewise.

The Governor pointed out that South Carolina was "fortunate in that the general assembly is now in session," as in Virginia, whereas North Carolina and Georgia legislatures are recessed.

"The South Carolina delegates to the regional tobacco conference at Washington tell me the legislature probably will pass the necessary legislation here," the Governor said.

PARDON POWER ABUSE IS HIT BY GRAND JURY

Presentments Rap Abuse of Pardoning Power, Criticize Court Costs.

Criticism of the "abuse of the power of pardoning" habitual criminals yesterday was contained in the final presentments of the January-February term Fulton grand jury, which also recommended the consolidation of the county tax assessors, receiver's and collector's offices under one department for economy and service.

The jurors condemned the practice of releasing hardened criminals to prey on the public after they had been sentenced in court to pay for their crimes.

Without mentioning Governor Tallmadge by name, the grand jury stated "It is a distinct menace to the community to allow these criminals freedom of the streets, and our law-enforcement agencies, from the highest to the lowest, should bend every effort to see they are convicted and their sentences are carried out."

Judge John D. Humphries, who dismissed the jury, praised the presentments as being "statesmanlike" and constructive.

Headed by Foreman J. T. Upchurch, the jurymen asserted court procedure should be reformed to allow trial juries to be informed of the previous records of criminals, and recommended that persons indicted jointly be jointly tried. They hit at the waste which results from severance of cases and in this were joined by Judge Humphries, who declared any other business which operated with such a tremendous loss would go to ruin.

Heavier penalties and bonds were urged for criminals by the jurors.

The grand jury declared a committee of nine citizens should be appointed by the grand jury, the county commission and the mayor and city council to study means for better government through possible consolidation of city and county government activities.

Committee Selections.

George McCarty, foreman of the July-August grand jury; Hugh Couch, railway executive, and Robert Mizell, president of the Georgia Taxpayers' League, were named by the outgoing jury as its selections for the committee. The county commission and city council with Mayor Key were urged to appoint their members at once.

Passage of a driver's license law in the state was likewise advocated by the jury.

No mention was made in the presentments of the Ralph Pharr fee case, which was criticized in a resolution adopted by the jury this week, nor of the John A. White park, which the jurymen requested the city to buy for West End residents earlier in the term after 86 acres of city-developed park land had reverted to Dr. O. E. Collum upon expiration of a five-year lease, during which the city spent $141,000 improving the recreational center.

19 True Bills.

The recommendations were short and pointed and were returned after the jurors found 19 true bills and one no-bill in winding up routine business.

Judge E. D. Thomas is to swear in the March-April grand jury Monday. The body will be charged by law to investigate county affairs and, if precedent is followed, will immediately launch a probe into the county government.

Read in open court by the jury secretary, yesterday's presentments dwelt at length on methods of handling criminal cases.

The attack on the pardon system was phrased thus: "We strongly condemn the present system of granting pardons and believe that power is being grossly abused."

Numerous complaints.

It was understood this criticism resulted from numerous complaints heard in the courthouse that as fast as the criminal and superior courts convicted and sentenced law breakers, they received executive clemency, which nullified the effect of the punishment passed on the offenders by courts and jury.

"We have been particularly impressed by the number of criminal offenses committed by old-timers, criminals who have been tried and convicted of the same or similar offenses one or more times previously," the presentments stated.

"In some cases they are at liberty under bond, in others because of shortening of prison sentences through pardon or parole. It is a distinct menace to allow these criminals the freedom of the streets," the grand jury declared.

Judge Humphries declared it would take legislative action to make it possible for trial juries to be informed of the past records of criminals, unless the record can be contained on the bill of indictment.

He said he favored this and suggested that juries should first find whether or not the indicted person is guilty, and then return to the courtroom to hear what the past record is before deciding on the sentence.

The judge did not comment directly upon the jury's recommendation that heavier bonds and penalties be exacted upon all persons under indictment who have past records, but he heartily approved the grand jury's proposal that persons jointly indicted should be tried jointly, except in cases where the circumstances would make it unfair.

The power of severance of cases should be in the hands of the presiding judge," the jurist asserted, adding that when he headed a committee of the bar association to revamp criminal procedure, he was unable to get other committee members to agree to such a recommendation.

Privilege Under Law.

The judge told the jurors the court and the solicitor-general usually would rather try cases jointly for the same offense but that lawyers frequently objected and the Georgia law gives the privilege of severance if it is desired.

"We are convinced," the grand jury stated, "that hardened criminals have been turned loose with no justification at all because the pardoning power is being abused."

Judge Humphries pointed out that grand juries bring to the attention of the public those reforms which should be effected for the betterment of the people.

The presentments recommended in a brief statement that the office of the county tax assessors, tax receiver and tax collector be consolidated to bring about a less expensive and more efficient method of handling taxes in Fulton county.

It likewise recommended that the people be allowed to vote on a "simplified plan for city government" at the earliest opportunity and suggested the fact-finding body of nine residents of the county propose the best system of government after a comprehensive study of all available forms.

BRITISH FAMILY HOLDS POST FOR 500 YEARS

LONDON, Feb. 28.—(UP)—For nearly 500 years, ever since 1440, the post of sexton of the historic church of St. Mary and St. Gabriel, at Stoke Gabriel, Devon, has been held by members of the Narracott family.

The latest appointment is that of G. C. M. Narracott, who, at the age of 21, is said to be the youngest sexton in Great Britain. His forbears were neighbors of Sir Walter Raleigh and Sir Humphrey Gilbert.

All the Narracott family, it is said, have lived in the same cottage.

2 Sentenced in Slaying.

LILLINGTON, N. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Judge N. A. Sinclair, in Harnett superior court today, sentenced Oris M. Pollard to five to ten years in state's prison and gave C. E. Dean a two-year term following conviction last night of the former Angier policemen of the second-degree murder of Furman G. Collins, well-to-do farmer.

Mrs. Bessie Stanley was hostess recently to the Friendly Bridge Club, at her home, and high score was won by Mrs. B. C. Rhiendhart. Present were Mesdames J. F. McGill, George Davis, Mrs. Myers, Bessie Stanley, Ed McGill, Milton Grubbs, B. C. Rhiendhart.

Report of Recent Senior Hadassah Conference Given

An illuminating report of the southern regional conference held in Jacksonville was brought to the Senior Hadassah meeting by Mrs. Harry H. Epstein, official delegate to this conference. Other attending were Mesdames Sam E. Levy, Hyman S. Jacobs, Louis J. Levitas, Harry Lever and Robert M. Travis.

"Palestine—Its Contribution to Modern Civilization," a paper prepared by Mrs. Epstein, and given at the convention was read to the Atlanta chapter. It covered the Jewish ethical contributions in the past and the present history-making experiments in colonization, agriculture, industry, medicine, the sciences and the arts of the old-new nation in Palestine.

Mrs. Sam E. Levy, president, announced that the next meeting will be a festive occasion celebrating Purim. A sheet shower for the Palestine hospitals will be held. Among its many activities, Hadassah continues to provide hospitals and institutions with supplies and linens.

In announcing the annual donation which will be held in May, Mrs. J. J. Hellman stated that the proceeds of this project heretofore used for the Hadassah medical organization have been used to serve a twofold purpose, that is, the Hadassah medical organization and the Youth Aliyah (transfer of persecuted youth from Germany and Poland to Palestine and maintenance for two years), and urged members to be liberal with their offerings.

Mrs. H. Epstein, chairman of educational group, announced that the next meeting of this group will be on Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Rich's conference room. The topic will be "Palestine and World Affairs."

Mothers' Club Hears Dean White Speak on Child Life Problems

The Mothers' Club of the Child Welfare Association, meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Neely on Wednesday, heard a splendid address by Dean Goodrich White, of Emory University. "The movements of the solar system are less complex than the play of a child in a single day," began Dr. White, "which is significant of the problem of all human nature as observed in child life."

"We must guide the child in noble, normal, healthy, vital, successful, happy living. The goal takes into account every phase of development. Mental health means efficiency and we define efficiency in this respect: Practically, doing something well—socially, learning to get along with other people."

"In a program for the child," Dr. White continued, "there are several suggestions I would make. The first of which is to take the whole child into account in all his school and home relationships. Second, try to understand causes as opposed to symptoms, which takes an enormous amount of imagination and which is very hard, but nevertheless must be undertaken."

Miss Lawless Feted At Birthday Dance

A delightful affair that assembled 300 members of the high school contingent was the dance at which Mrs. E. L. Roberts, president, and last evening at a local studio honoring their granddaughter, Miss Jane Lawless. The honor guest, the lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lawless, celebrated her fourteenth birthday on this occasion.

The studio was beautifully decorated with a color motif of royal blue and silver carried out in every detail. Miss Lawless wore a dance frock of royal blue chiffon crepe, fashioned on long lines with a rhinestone studded jacket. Her flowers were garlands.

Mr. and Mrs. Stoddard were assisted in entertaining by Mr. and Mrs. Lawless. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bouziques, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Meredith, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. L. Estes and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Crosswell.

Oriental Club Gives Dance Tonight.

Appropriate favors will be given to all attending, and a popular dance orchestra, including several well-known vocalists, will complete the musical program. The dance will be cabaret style, with no charge for table service. A reasonable admission price will be made, and the public is invited.

Brack—Youngblood.

MIDVILLE, Ga., Feb. 28.—The marriage of Miss Frances Brack, of Midville, to Miss Youngblood, of Douglas, took place Sunday afternoon at the home of the bride in Midville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. R. McKibben, pastor of the Methodist church. The bride wore a suit of aqua marine blue, with white accessories. Her costume was completed by a shoulder bouquet of roses and valley lilies. The couple will reside in Douglas.

YOU'RE A LUCKY BRIDE, DEAR. THINGS ARE DIFFERENT TODAY. WHEN I WAS A GIRL—

I had to scrub clothes for hours—and stand over a hot, steamy boiler trying to get the wash snowy. But today the modern wife simply soaks her wash whiter and brighter in creamy Rinso suds. That saves wear and tear on clothes—makes them last 2 or 3 times longer. As long as Rinso is made, you'll never have to worry about washboard backache. Use Rinso for dishes and all cleaning. It's wonderful in washers, too. Rinso gives thick, lasting suds—even in hardest water. It's so easy on hands.

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK CITY.—There is an old French proverb: "L'appétit vient en mangeant." I suppose the nearest English equivalent we have is: "The more you have, the more you want."

As we look over the world today, it seems to me as though human nature is living up to the proverb. The more we kill, the more casual we become about human life. The kind of detachment with which we read our papers, I believe, lies at the root of the continuance of many of the horrors of civilization.

Planes flying over some place in Africa and killing many people seem to make no dent on our imagination. That some men in a distant country assassinate certain officials of their government, reads to the majority of us like a fairy tale. That a group of gangsters in our own country commit some terrible crime, brings a little more interest but not enough to galvanize us into action.

I suppose this apathy comes partly from the fact that we always feel that these things will happen to the other fellow but not to us, and as individuals we feel that our action, or inaction, will produce about the same result—nobody in authority will pay any attention to what we think.

Until we free ourselves of this inferiority complex, which is nothing more than a comfortable alibi to sidestep responsibility, I do not see much chance of improving conditions either at home or abroad. And yet, the most powerful weapon we have at our command today is public opinion. Statesmen quail before it and it could move mountains.

I came over from Washington to New York this morning to preside tonight at "America's Town Meeting of the Air" on the subject of youth, and so it is fitting that my day should be devoted to youth. Therefore, I attended the junior school party at the Tudor City school, where my small granddaughter, Eleanor Dall, had a part in the play. These youngsters are very interesting as hostesses, and at their party, which they give once every winter to their parents and friends, they serve tea and seem to forget themselves in their desire to make their guests enjoy the afternoon. As this is the basis for all real hospitality, it seems well to include it as part of their education.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON, World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

EXCESSIVE COURTESY.

The exquisite courtesy exchanged between declarer and adversary on certain hands reminds one strikingly of the Alphonse and Gaston cartoons of long ago. The declarer painstakingly maneuvers himself into a position from which only the opponents or heaven can extricate him. Gallant Gaston, in the person of the defenders, gallops to the rescue with shining sword. Their helpless partners, temporarily united under the banner of suffering, smile wistfully and commiseratingly at each other, each wondering who is to be the final victim.

Error for Error.

The declarer's four-club contract in the hand shown below was proof against any form of defense except the one he used on himself.

South, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

South West North East

1 spade Pass 2 diamonds Pass

3 spades Pass 3 no trump Pass

4 spades (final bid)

West opened the singleton heart and declarer won with the ace. He then laid down three top trumps, and, being disappointed that the jack did not fall, saw no reason to force it out. Obviously he should have done so, in order to guard against the suit from trump interference. The declarer's ace of clubs acting as an impregnable fortress, the defense's three top trumps the diamond was led and overtaken in the dummy. East had to follow to two diamond leads, but on the third round, to his partner's astonishment, he carefully conserved his high trump, discarding a heart. The fourth and fifth rounds found him still with a card grip on his beautiful trump. Declarer, feeling he had executed some rare type of coup, eventually conceding the cherished jack of trump and a club trick. Obviously, had East ruffed at his earliest opportunity, the contract would have been defeated one trick, since only two losers could have been discarded. East must have sensed, from his partner's stony face, that his performance had not been especially brilliant, and he remained discreetly silent. Declarer, feeling more fatuous, he laid himself well open with a ray, self-satisfied: "Well, how did I play it, partner?"

North's answer was a look smugly cunning, "Lousy," he growled.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: What is the penalty in the following situation? Dealer bid one spade. Second hand doubled. Third hand passed and fourth hand redoubled his partner's double.

Answer: In rubber bridge the redouble is canceled and the offender's side must pass whenever it is its turn to call. The player on the offender's side may cancel the double of the offender's partner in the same manner as only the offender's partner is barred. The offender himself may bid again.

Waycross Weddings Are of Interest.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Feb. 28.—The marriage of Miss Mary Eloise Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Patterson, of Waycross, to William Luther Coleman, formerly of Vidalia, was solemnized on Sunday at the bride's home on Williams street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. Warwick, presiding elder of the Waycross Methodist district, who officiated at the wedding of the bride's party 28 years ago. The bride wore a smart two-piece suit of blossom blue crepe and navy accessories. Her flowers were a spray of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The bride was escorted by Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sanders, Mrs. G. J. Jansen, Miss Marian Wood, Miss Alice Finley, of Savannah; Mrs. Viola Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Davis, S. M. Rabun, of Vidalia; Miss Eugenia West, of DeSoto, and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Cason, of Fitzgerald. On February 23, Miss Eleanor Virginia Runyan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Robert Hunyan, of Waycross, became the bride of Frederick Reibel McMullen Jr., son of Dr. F. B. McMullen, of Clearwater, Fla., and Mrs. Marguerite McMullen, of Tampa, Fla., at the bride's home. Rev. Leland Moore, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiated in the presence of the families and close friends. Attendants were Miss Amber Vivian Turner and Joe Coston. The attractive bride wore a suit of white crepe embroidered in pastel shades, the high neckline being fastened with tiny covered buttons. A becoming white turban with short veil and white accessories completed the costume. She wore a shoulder spray of gardenias. A wedding breakfast was served following the ceremony. After a trip on the Florida east coast, Mr. and Mrs. McMullen will reside in Clearwater.

Miss Edna Amette Greene became the bride of Dr. R. E. Gary on February 25 at the First Presbyterian church. Rev. Louis C. LaMotte officiated in the presence of the families. The bride was lovely in a brown sheer woolen dress, worn with a finger-length coat of the same material. Her smart hat and other accessories were in a matching shade and she wore a shoulder cluster of tall-tan roses. They will reside in Anniston, Ala., as Dr. Gary has been appointed as district surgeon for the army hospital there.

West End Club Names Nominating Group.

At the meeting of the West End Woman's Club Wednesday the following members were elected to serve on the nominating committee: Mrs. J. H. Phagan, Mrs. E. L. Edwards, Mrs. J. H. Legien, Mrs. Luther Still and Mrs. R. D. Manston. Outstanding reports were made by Mrs. W. C. Messer, chairman of garden division; Mrs. J. H. Phagan, chairman of work at hospital No. 45; Mrs. W. N. Ponder, library extension; Mrs. E. W. Newman, sick and visits committee; Mrs. H. B. Bankston, treasurer, and Mrs. J. W. Wooley, house manager.

Mrs. W. G. Morgan and Mrs. Oren Warren have been received into the club as new members.

Visitors Honored.

The trio of charming matrons who are visiting Mrs. George Street at her home on Wesley road were central figures at the luncheon given there yesterday by Mrs. George Street. The visitors include Mrs. Marshall Diggs and Mrs. James D. Taylor, both of Washington, D. C., and William Browning, of Dallas, Texas. The luncheon table was set with yellow palms and centered with yellow roses and delphinium.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted to "Madame" will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Somebody asked a young composer of popular songs how he managed to ring the bell every time he threw the ball. Being a modest young man, he did not gush the compliment at one swallow but replied that any slight success he had enjoyed was due to the fact that he always wrote songs which he believed in. "People love sentiment, you know, even those that sneer at it. If you say it to them they eat it with a big spoon. He's a real lad. He caters to the heart and everybody has one. Written, sung, painted, carved, spoken, sentiment is the language of the heart and all understand it. Boys and girls, and even the old folks, understand it. The low-brows wallow in it. The young folks, too. The old folks, too. The rich like to buy it and the poor thank God it can't be bought and sold. People do love sentiment and this is why poets, painters, sculptors, musicians, dramatists, actors, novelists, and all sorts of advertisers reach for it. Sentiment brings in the customers and without the customers the show can't go on.

Says your high-latter: "Only the sissy are sentimental. People that can't think have to resort to sentiment." Maybe so, but what does he say more easily to the waltz tune that carries a sentimental line. He goes more eagerly up to the box or the stage that sells a show than he does to the picture that awakens an emotion by a "loved long since and loved no less." He reaches for the warm his cold blood stream and give him the cozy, comfortable sensations he once had before the family fissure. He enjoys the warm, the assurance that he can live happily ever after. He treasures most the books that make his heart muscles tingle and bring tears to his eyes. He searches for a companion that feels as he does about life, love and letters and when he has found her he doesn't care whether or not she likes him. He does. He is more perturbed with evidences of her sentimentality than with evidences of her intellectuality. The higher he has the more he has gone, the longer the walk back. The more he has sneered, the more words he has to eat. He's like all the rest—sentimental.

What a sad world this would be if we allowed the intellectuals to shame us out of our sentimentalities! Christmas, Easter, birthday and anniversary celebrations would go first. There would be no more tinseltown, bride's veils and wedding rings. No more honeymoons! Love letters would be an offense against good taste. Volumes of romance and poetry would go out of the window. Jewelry stores, toy shops, art galleries and museums would close their doors.

"Man wants but little here below Nor wants that little long. Yet he must prefer to have it sweet even though it is short and sentiment is life's greatest sweetener. We can't live without it."

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Y.W.C.A. PRESIDENT ASKS FIRE PROBE

"Unexplained Circumstances" About Camp Blaze, Writes Mrs. Rosser.

An investigation by J. W. Slade, state fire inspector, of the blaze which destroyed five buildings at Camp High-De, the Y. W. C. A. camp in Cobb county Tuesday night, was asked yesterday by Mrs. Luther Z. Rosser, president of the Young Women's Christian Association, in a letter which set forth that there were unexplained circumstances surrounding the fire.

Employees of the fire inspector's office said yesterday Slade was out of the city, but today returned to which time the letter requesting the investigation would be brought to his attention. They expressed the belief an investigation would be conducted if circumstances seemed to warrant it.

In her letter to Slade, Mrs. Rosser said: "Our investigation fails to reveal any way in which this blaze could have started naturally."

Scheduled activities, which included two important church conferences and a regional girls' conference, are handicapped seriously by the fire loss, Mrs. Rosser pointed out.

"In view of the fact there are several unexplained circumstances surrounding this fire," she said, "we respectfully request you to make a full and complete investigation and let us know the results."

HIGHWAY BUILDING PLANS ANNOUNCED

Wilburn Says Board Will Spend $200,000 Despite State Tangle.

Despite withdrawal of federal aid due to Georgia's tangled financial situation, Chairman W. E. Wilburn, of the State Highway Board, said yesterday "We intend to spend $200,000 on new road construction this year."

Only $1,100,000 in contracts have been let since January 1, and most of these were with federal funds. A $17,000,000 federal aid allotment is impounded to the credit of Georgia at Washington.

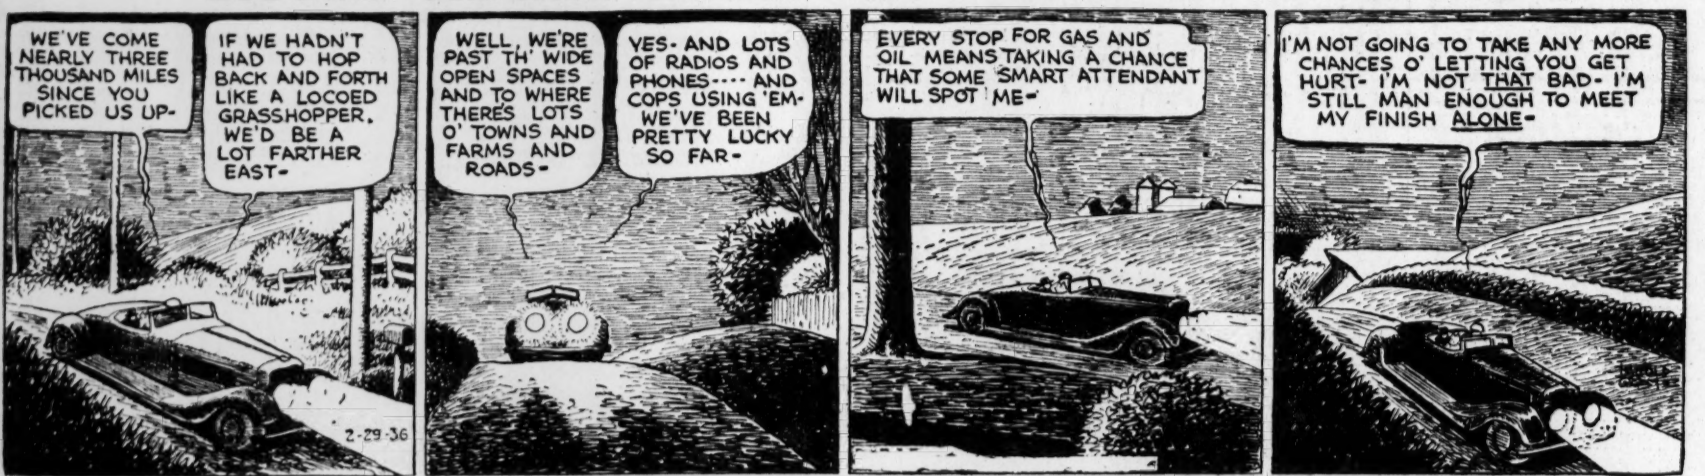

The contemplated expenditures would be a 67 per cent increase over the $126,000 expenditures of 1935. Wilburn said "We are doing everything possible to make the roads safe."

"We are eliminating all dangerous curves and constructing overhauled grade crossings as rapidly as

- MYSTERY HOUSE -

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

FINAL INSTALLMENT.

"The old Rock."

"Two of the Chinese boys were there closing things up, and of course the Japanese. They asked me about Mrs. Prendergast—they called her that, naturally, and I didn't explain anything. Anything about her name, I mean. I told them that we would come down some day soon and talk to them, and we walked on to the terrace a little; we didn't go in. Somehow I couldn't go in."

"We can write them, can't we? There's no reason for our ever going back, is there?" Lynn said uneasily. Page looked at him a moment before replying.

"Just looking at the rock made me remember those horrible days and how my head had ached and how cold we were," she said presently. "No, we don't have to go back—right away, anyhow."

"Nor ever!" Lynn added jealously.

"About a week from today," Page said, deliberately turning Lynn's thoughts from Mystery House and its involved affairs, "we'll get in the new car—I saw it yesterday. Blue, with two nice blue suitcases in back."

"Oh, Page, go on! It's so lovely to hear you. Have we a car?"

"We have, and I'm taking a driving lesson every day. Well, a week from today we pack up everything and go down to the car, and turn south—just we two. We'll drive until we're hungry, and then we'll eat, and then we'll drive more—along the shore and under the trees and through the villages, and we'll buy whatever we like and when we get tired we'll rest—two days or three days, or as long as we like, and then we'll go on again."

"Heaven!" he whispered with lips that trembled.

"And while we're gone," Page pursued, "while we're seeing Mexico, and maybe New York, or whatever we like, there'll be carpenters working again at Mystery House, and down every shingle. All the fireplaces and stained glass windows and dining rooms, and the terrace, and the balconies and the turrets will go up in one big bonfire."

"But we'll leave the terraces and the oaks, and when we come back it'll be hot June and all the roses will be in bloom. We'll build a camp down there, and watch our white farmhouse with the green blinds and the red doors go up. And we'll get by horses and our red and white cows and our Rhode Island Reds and Irish setters and nobody'll ever remember that right on that site stood all that horror and dreadfulness."

Lynn's eyes had lost their uneasy look. He listened contentedly.

"And we'll put the whistle out on the rock, Page. Remember that one day you said there ought to be a strong whistle out there, so no one ever could be caught there again?"

She was thinking. She frowned faintly, out of deep thought.

"Before I went down to Mystery House at all, Lynn, do you think they meant to kill you, once they got the diamond?"

A shadow came on his face. He spoke uncertainly. The eyes she loved turned trustfully to hers.

"They didn't have any plan, do you think? Or do you think they did? I think—well, I hate to remember it all!—I think Rand was to have the diamond; that was to be his share. He could have sold it, out in China somewhere—they couldn't. He might have just taken it and given them the slip. Should we—should we do something about the Ked Anna, Page?"

"Well, let's decide, and then let's forget it," Page said practically, comfortably. The less Lynn thinks and hears of the whole horrible mess the better for him, she thought. She took from the new brown sport suit a little fold of pink cotton, unrolled it. The Ked Anna flashed gold and blue and pink in the morning sunshine.

"It's beautiful—the devilish thing," she said, a little awed.

"What'll we do with it? You wouldn't like to wear it, Page?"

"Vear it! I don't! Remind myself every day of all the horrors we've been through? No, and I don't think anyone else ought to," she said. "I'm all for cutting it up into four and selling it, and buying a few more red and white cows!"

His eyes lighted; faint color came into his face.

"Oh, Page, dare we?"

"Dare we! It's ours."

"Oh, let's stop somewhere and have some jeweler do that tomorrow!"

"Tomorrow it shall be." She twisted the stone idly. "Look your last at the Ked Anna," she said.

"You're done making trouble!" Lynn said, taking the diamond.

"Think—perhaps you ought to think what you'd do with it," Page said with sudden compunction. "It's the fifth biggest diamond in the world; it's the only pink one. There isn't a king alive who couldn't buy it if he could!"

Lynn, there, his eyes closed, twisted the stone between his fine thin fingers.

"It will make four stones," he said, simply, and they will be sold and lost in the world, and we'll never see them! I hate it. I never want to see it again. Page, if they offered me ten Ked Annas for one of the hours of next week, when we get into the blue car and turn south, I'd laugh at them! To be alone in the world, just you and I, and to be feeling stronger and better every minute, and to feel the sun shining, and see the roads going everywhere, in every direction, that's better than all the diamonds in the world! And to have you loving me right beside me all day—in my arms!"

"It's too good," Page said simply. "He's a nice fellow, isn't he?" Lynn said, with timid earnestness.

"Wonderful. But I happen," the girl said, deliberately, "to love you." Lynn laughed shakily, ecstatically.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Farber, Ph.D.

In Dr. Williams' college textbook, "Personal Hygiene Applied," he reports the following facts: "Schumberg finds that coffee and tea have no relaxing effect. The tea is almost negligible. The stimulating effect of these beverages seems to be in their ability to cause quantities of sugar to be released into the blood and in certain nerve reactions. These make a person feel as if his muscles were rested."

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK.

This year, February has an extra day—we call it "leap year's day," and we speak of 1936 as a "leap year."

Leap years come once in four years, and the reason for them is bound up in the twisting of the earth. As our old earth speeds around the sun, it twists or "rotates" a little more than 365 times.

If the earth turned around exactly 365 times during a year, we should not need to have leap years, and there would have been much less bother about calendars. As it is, there is a bit of extra time in the year—five hours, 48 minutes and 46 seconds. That caused worry in ancient times—to people in Egypt, Greece and Rome. They tried to fix their calendars, but it did not meet with complete success.

At first thought, we might suppose that a few hours in a year would not make much difference; but if we add the extra hours and minutes together for all the years of a century, we find that they make a difference of about three and one-half weeks. Add them together for a thousand years, and they make a difference of more than eight months.

Long ago there were times when calendar-keepers found that months which had started out as summer months were coming in the spring, fall or winter—because a proper count of the extra time in a year had not been kept and allowed for.

Julius Caesar changed the Roman calendar system, and did much to take away the older errors, but even his calendar was not exact. Men working under Pope Gregory changed Caesar's calendar, and formed what came to be known as the "Gregorian calendar."

The Gregorian calendar did not come into use by all nations of Europe at the same time. England and some other lands were slow to adopt it, for they did not care to make the change of dates which the new calendar asked for. Now, however, it is used all over Europe, North America, South America and Australia, and to some extent in Africa and Asia.

The Gregorian calendar allows for the fact that the extra time in a year does not make quite one-quarter of a day. There is a leap year every four years except during the year at the beginning of certain centuries. Leaving out the leap year day once in a great while does a great deal to make the present calendar exact. It is not quite perfect, but it is better than calendars of the past.

The average price of middling cotton today at 10 southern spot markets was 11.20 cents a pound; government subsidy 0.80 of a cent a pound.

Activity in the cotton futures market today was limited to sporadic short covering and some trade buying which handily absorbed small offerings and gave a steady tone to trading. Losing prices showed net advances of two to three points.

A slight irregularity in stocks apparently was offset by completion of congressional action on the farm bill, the mixed opinion as to what average control operations the secretary of agriculture will devise for the cotton farmer, and a continued good demand for spot cotton, both at home and abroad.

Secretary Plauché's statement on spinners' takings for the week showed then to be holding well above the mill takings for the same week a year ago, though somewhat lower than last week's takings. Exports for the week held above the foreign shipments for the same week a year ago, but the season's exports totaled 1,085,741 bales more than a year ago at this time.

Speculative interests remained hesitant to enter the market in any large way because of factors yet covering substantial concern the new crop. Subnormal temperatures prevailed over the belt and farmers were believed to be holding back their offerings, making a definite announcement from Secretary Wallace on the government's cotton program.

The cotton market, a good cotton customer, had a tendency to make traders cautious pending more definite news from that country. Port receipts today totaled 4,263,730; last season 3,990,438. Exports today 15,970; last season 17,034; this season 4,327,400; last season 4,274,744. Stocks 2,438,712; last year 2,772,088. Stock on shipboard at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston today 96,272; last year 82,708. Spot sales were 679,381; last year 679,381; this season 2,436,508.

COTTON: FUTURES STEADY ON N. Y. EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(P)—Cotton held fairly steady today on a moderate trade, with prices closing at net gains of 1 to 6 points.

The opening was somewhat irregular with March 3 points higher on trade buying and preparatory to the new crop. The market was under moderate offerings which seemed to be coming from the south, wire houses and Japanese sources. These offerings were not heavy, but the market steadied up later in the day with active movements selling about 3 to 7 points net higher. Closing quotations were slightly off from the best under realizing.

Passage of the farm bill was without effect on the market which was narrow and sensitive to small orders either way.

Exports today 12,765, making 4,541,460 so far this season. Port receipts 9,090. United States port receipts 2,436,508.

DIVIDEND ORDERED Coca-Cola Shows Increase in Earnings.

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 28.—The directors of the Coca-Cola Company declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents per share on the common stock, payable April 1, 1936, to the stockholders of record at close of business March 1.

A preliminary report of 1935 operations was submitted to the board by President R. W. Woodruff, showing a net profit of $1,803,984.26, applicable to the 4,000,000 shares of common stock, after reserves, taxes, Class "A" dividends and all charges. This is equivalent to $3.47 per share. Net earnings for the fourth quarter in 1935, after reserves, taxes, Class "A" dividends and all charges, amounted to $2,960,736.70, as compared with $2,857,124.84 for the fourth quarter of 1934.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(P)—The stock market today was characterized by a general decline, with early gains overbalanced by selling in late trading. The Dow-Jones industrial average closed at 137.3, up 0.2 points from the previous day.

All through the day, prices gained slowly in virtually the entire list, both good and bad. Finally, however, the adverse intelligence over the railroad board room optimism, and the volume of trading, led to a general decline in the market.

Near the close of the session, Montgomery Ward declared a dividend of 10 cents per share, the first since August 1934. The stock rose 1/2 point to 100 1/2.

That upset hit the market at a time when doubts on the rails were mounting, and general selling followed, which was topped in late afternoon by a sharp decline in the market.

The day for substantial gains in the volume of trading was 2,473,180 shares, slightly higher than the previous session, and the volume of a point to 137.3. The downturn was softened by a rise of 1 point in the industrial average.

MELON MARKET PACT
APPROVED BY WALLACE*Shipment Limitations by Sizes, Grades Provided in Plan.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace tentatively approved today a new marketing agreement for watermelons grown in Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, and South Carolina.

This agreement, embodying the principal features of the existing agreement, has been sent to watermelon handlers in the southeastern area for approval.

Three major changes, said to have been suggested by representatives of the industry, are included in the new agreement.

They are: the provision authorizing limitation of shipments by size as well as by grade; inspection and certification by accredited inspectors; and the addition of one member to the control committee, increasing committee membership to 12.

Producers in the southeast will vote in a referendum the first two for March on a proposed administrative order said to be necessary to make the program effective.

Two thirds of the growers voting must approve the order before it can be issued.

Shipping holidays of not more than 48 hours are provided to meet emergency situations.

The control committee named in the agreement includes the following from Georgia: W. R. Tharsh, Barwick; Alternate C. L. Roberts, Doern; Max L. McRae, of McRae; Alternate C. B. Wilson, of Wilson; H. L. Cartwright, of Cartwright; S. T. Hall, of Hall; F. H. Hall, of Hall; Alternate J. B. Easterlin, of Easterlin; R. P. Parish, of Parish; and J. J. Parish, of Parish.

RUFUS LAMAR BOND
DIES IN HOSPITAL*Son of Atlanta Mortician
Served Overseas During World War.

Rufus Lamar Bond, son of Ed F. Bond, of the firm of Brandon-Bond-Condol, Atlanta morticians, died yesterday in a private hospital after a long illness at the age of 38.

Mr. Bond had achieved a distinguished army record. He was a veteran of the Mexican War and the World War, serving in France for a year. During his service overseas he was gassed. Returning to America, Mr. Bond remained in the army until he was forced to resign several years ago due to failing health.

Previous to his army activities he had been associated with the mortuary firm. He was a licensed embalmer.

Funeral services will be held at 11 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Brandon-Bond-Condol, with the Rev. Stuart R. Oglesby officiating.

Burial will be in West View cemetery. Pallbearers will be W. F. Huiet, Ben T. Huiet, Henry Cobb, John Murray, Jason Tuggle and George Hamilton.

RITES FOR PRESSLEY WILL BE HELD TODAY

Funeral services for Lieutenant R. C. Pressley, former editor of the Confederate veteran, who died Thursday at the age of 98, will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at the chapel of J. Austin Dilling, with the chaplain of the home officiating.

A member of a distinguished Georgia family, Lieutenant Pressley was for many years a teacher at the Roswell high school. He was a native of Cobb county and a relative of the first Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the President.

His father, Dr. Ebenezer Pressley, for a number of years was president of Erskine College, at Due West, S. C.

Lieutenant Pressley was captured by the Union forces during the war and held in military prison. He was honorably discharged at the close of hostilities in 1865.

Burial will be in the Marietta cemetery.

Photos of Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray
Are Offered in Next Sunday's Constitution

The photo of Carole Lombard is offered next Sunday, March 1st, in The Constitution's Screen and Radio Magazine. A great deal has been said and printed about Carole Lombard's demands at the Universal Studio when she was betrothed to star in "Love Before Breakfast." Anyway, the film is finished and ready to be released. It is about a man madly in love with a girl, who resents his affections, but they cannot get along without each other. Preston Foster is the man, while Cesar Romero completes the triangle. This photo offered by The Constitution of Carole Lombard is a newly posed one, 8x10 inches, linen-line finish.

A photo of Fred MacMurray is offered next Sunday, March 1st, in The Constitution's Screen and Radio Magazine. There can be no question about the statement that Fred MacMurray has probably made greater strides toward stardom in the past year than any other player. You will therefore be interested to know that his next starring vehicle, "Thirteen Hours by Air," a Paramount picture is to be released soon. The Constitution is offering a newly posed photograph of Fred MacMurray for our reader's private screen set album, size 8x10 inches, linen-line finish. Offered also with Fred MacMurray next Sunday is the photo of Carole Lombard in the Screen and Radio Magazine.

It will be found that the offer of these photographs has been slightly changed, as has been previously stated. Instead of requiring readers to send in every week, they will be required to hold the coupons each week for four weeks; then send in all four coupons representing four pairs, or eight pictures, with 16 cents in money or stamps if to go by mail; or if presented over the counter of The Atlanta Constitution circulation department, the entire eight can be had for 10 cents.

Read the offer set forth in Sunday's Screen and Radio Magazine of March 1st. You will note that on March 1st you can get all eight pictures for February. The offering of these pictures by The Atlanta Constitution is a regular Sunday feature that appears each Sunday in Screen and Radio Magazine.

Rail Fare Cut to 2 Cents a Mile
Is Ordered in Effect by I. C. C.*Pullman Charges Reduced to Three Cents Per Mile in 5-4
Decision; Challenge of Cheap Highway Transportation Cited.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission in a 5-to-4 decision today ordered a 50-cent basic coach rate to 2 cents a mile, with Pullman fare cut to 3 cents.

A majority opinion of the divided commission asserted the move was necessary to meet the challenge of cheap highway transportation.

The order, effective June 2, brings the rates down from the existing 3.0 cent basic coach rate and the average of 4 cents for Pullmans, including surcharges, were eliminated.

Eastern roads, however, have sought reduction of the exception of the Baltimore & Ohio. The eastern carriers contended a fare cut would shear $36,500,000 from their annual revenues.

So-called extra fare trains were not involved in the I. C. C. order.

Other Developments.

The nation's railroads also were concerned in three other developments at the capital today.

The constitutionality of the 1935 railroad retirement act was challenged in the District of Columbia superior court by 16 employees of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad.

They said they preferred the pension system of their road to the federal system with its Pullman pension plan. Employees do not contribute to the present Coast Line plan.

Transportation Co-ordinator Joseph B. Eastman agreed, upon application of railroad labor groups, to withdraw until March 31 all proposed orders compelling railroad terminal unification. The labor groups said they wanted to formulate a policy on the proposal.

The National Coal Commission urged reduction of present coal freight rates to "reasonable levels," saying it would oppose continuation of present emergency surcharges on bituminous coal rates beyond June 30, when they expire unless continued by the I. C. C.

Court Test Anticipated.

A court test by eastern roads of the I. C. C.'s passenger fare order was viewed as possible by officials here, but there was no immediate announcement of such a move.

In fitting the new rate structure on the roads, the commission majority cited a general decline in passenger revenues since 1925, and the fact that low-cost highway transportation has been a major factor in weaning travelers away from the railroads.

Passenger service, it said, has been contributing its "fair share" to rail revenues.

Written by Commissioner Claude R. Porter, who initiated the fare investigation almost two years ago, the 72-page majority opinion was supported by Commissioners W. M. C. Spahn, Clyde B. Aitchison, Carroll M. Smith, and J. H. Clegg.

Chairman Charles D. Mahaffie and Commissioners B. H. Meyer, Frank McManamy and William E. Lee dissented, while Commissioner Hugh M. Tate did not participate in the proceeding.

Dissenting View.

In his dissenting opinion, Meyer expressed the view that the new rates would not be low enough "to recover a large volume of business from private automobiles."

Mahaffie and the reduced fares would not bring maximum possible revenue to the roads.

McManamy declared the I. C. C. had no legal authority to order the rate cut, and Lee branded the ruling an invasion of "the field of management."

President M. W. Clement of the Pennsylvania railroad, contended the order would have a serious effect on our revenues.

Saying the ruling came as a "big surprise," Clement added he did not know at this time whether his road would go into the courts to fight it.

TALMADGE IS "GRATIFIED"
OVER REDUCTION IN FARES

Governor Talmadge expressed delight yesterday that the Interstate Commerce Commission had ordered a reduction in basic passenger fares.

"I'm gratified," Talmadge said. "This order of the I. C. C. will not only help the people, it will help the railroads."

You can't sell anything unless you put it at a reasonable price."

One of the first acts of the Public Service Commission which Talmadge appointed after ousting the old board was to initiate a reduction in railroad passenger rates.

His commission pioneered in the movement.

Yesterday, Chairman Jud P. Wilhoit, of the commission, said the reduced rates in Georgia had brought more net revenues to the railroads.

Only help the people, it will help the railroads.

ByRNES REPEATS PLEA

BYRNES REPEATS PLEA
IN BEHALF OF HAGOOD*Dern Again Asked by South Carolina Senator To Return Officer to Post.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Senator Byrnes, democrat, South Carolina, today reiterated a plea to Secretary Dern to countermand the order relieving Major General John Scott Hagood from command of eighth corps area.

He said General Hagood had asked that his house committee relief fund testimony not be published and had expressed regret when it was published.

Earlier in the day the senate military committee named a subcommittee of three to consider the Metcalf resolution proposing an investigation of Hagood's removal.

Byrnes made public a letter he wrote Dern saying that since his call on the secretary yesterday he had been thinking of the matter.

Representatives McSwain, South Carolina, and Blanton, democrat, Texas, also had been informed the printed report of Hagood's testimony dropped out of "questions and answers" of members of the committee.

He added that he also had learned since yesterday that Hagood on Sunday, Feb. 26, six days before the committee hearing testimony was released for publication, wired the clerk of the appropriations subcommittee that "higher authority" had directed him to drop out of the report.

Byrnes said he was not sure if the "higher authority" was the president or the president's budget as submitted to congress.

ANTONIO SCOTTI DIES
NAPLES SECLUSION*Metropolitan Opera Baritone for 33 Years Passes in Poverty.

NAPLES, Italy, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Four mourners only followed to the grave today the body of Antonio Scotti—beloved baritone, who sang for 38 successive seasons at the Metropolitan in New York and died here in poverty.

Scotti, a bachelor, died in retirement Wednesday, but the fact became known only today.

He was 70 years old. Friends disclosed he was in straitened circumstances, asserting he had been ill for a decade, although he retired only three years ago.

He had been living on funds supplied by the Music Lovers' Foundation of New York, they said.

The veteran ended his active career of 43 years in 1933 at the Metropolitan and returned to Naples. Arteriosclerosis was the cause of death, his friends said.

Without a family, Scotti had spent recent months almost in isolation. Italian newspapers ignored his death until only a paid obituary notice inserted by friends in the Mattino of Naples.

It said Scotti "in his glorious lyrical career held high the prestige of the Italian art on the stages of the world."

The body, followed by four friends, was buried in a small mausoleum in the cemetery of the city.

Because of his poverty and retired manner of living newspapers were unaware of his death until the simple obituary notice appeared in the Mattino.

Scotti was better known in America than he was in Italy. He died in a small room in the city.

Friends explained his poverty by saying he spent his money on attempted cures.

SCOTTI PATRONS MOURN
DEATH OF SINGER

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The men and women who lived and sang and played with Antonio Scotti—and who helped comfort his last years with a deep-mourning the death of a great singer.

Alber M. Bagby, president of the "Music Lovers' Foundation, Inc., disclosed the foundation had been paying Scotti a monthly pension of $100 for the last three years. Bagby, long a devotee of the opera, founded the corporation to aid opera stars in January, 1925, and six others now are receiving similar pensions.

Scotti lost most of his money in an operatic tour of the United States three years ago. The pension ended when he was in comfort in his native Italy.

He was one of the most beloved singers of all time. Bagby said of Scotti: "He was a great singer, a great artist, but he also had a gracious and charming personality. Even people who didn't know him loved him."

Scotti was a man of great talent, a great singer, a great artist, but he also had a gracious and charming personality. Even people who didn't know him loved him.

Famous Baritone Is Dead
AMBALAJA CAPTURED
BY FASCIST RAIDERS*Historic Spot Captured; Fas-
cists Claim Revenge for
Defeat in 1895-1896.

ROME, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The Italian government said today that historic Ambalaja, objective of the hard-driving northern army, had been captured from the Ethiopians.

Fascists celebrated the reported capture with cheers and boisterous toasts—"Viva Italia, Ambalaja has been recovered."

This point was the farthest south the Italians penetrated in their ill-fated punitive expedition of 1895-96. The Ethiopians annihilated 2,000 Italian troops under Major Tosi, drove the main army back to Addis Ababa and administered a crushing defeat there.

Addis Ababa has already been "avenged" by the fascists.

A communiqué from Marshal Pietro Badoglio, commander of the armies in Africa, said:

"The troops of the first army corps have conquered Ambalaja."

"From 11 o'clock this morning and henceforth, the tri-color waves on the summit of the mountain which saw the heroic sacrifice of Toselli and his men."

The movement toward Ambalaja (Amba) in Ethiopia means "high ridge" was begun at dawn yesterday, from a point 10 or 12 miles distant, Badoglio said.

Advancing and soldiers milled around billboards tonight exulting over the advance and studied its scope with the aid of electrically lighted maps of Ethiopia.

A slight rain failed to dampen their spirits. Students and young fascists groups assembled in various cities for parade and to cheer Premier Mussolini and Badoglio.

SELASSIE HOPING
FOR LEAGUE SANCTIONS

ADDIS ABABA, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Hope for additional sanctions against Italy instead of peace talks was expressed today by Emperor Haile Selassie.

"We hope there will be no further delay in the extension of sanctions," he said, in a message to the League of Nations, referring to a meeting of the League sanctions committee called for March 2.

The obligations of member states under Article 16 of the League covenant is in no way modified or dependent upon the consideration of non-member states.

League officials, commenting on Rome rumors that the emperor is sick or wounded, said he was in perfect health.

In his message, the emperor said "the Ethiopian government has not taken and will not take any initiative in the matter of peace proposals."

"The fact that the Italians have been occupying Ethiopian territory, causing us no concern, as they have not occupied any important military positions and their advance has increased their lines of communication and offers greater opportunities for guerrilla tactics against them."

Haile Selassie extended to the "people of North and South America our deepest sympathy for their struggle for peace and sympathy in Ethiopia's great hour of trial. We never will forget our friends."

Examples of Effect Of Rate Reduction

By The Associated Press.

Computations today indicated cost of travel between New York and other cities by rail will be very materially reduced under the new rates ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Some examples: Day Coach fares from New York to:

Chicago ..... $12.70
St. Louis ..... $18.14
St. Paul ..... $21.02

AMBALAJA CAPTURED
BY FASCIST RAIDERS*Historic Spot Captured; Fas-
cists Claim Revenge for
Defeat in 1895-1896.

ROME, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The Italian government said today that historic Ambalaja, objective of the hard-driving northern army, had been captured from the Ethiopians.

Fascists celebrated the reported capture with cheers and boisterous toasts—"Viva Italia, Ambalaja has been recovered."

This point was the farthest south the Italians penetrated in their ill-fated punitive expedition of 1895-96. The Ethiopians annihilated 2,000 Italian troops under Major Tosi, drove the main army back to Addis Ababa and administered a crushing defeat there.

Addis Ababa has already been "avenged" by the fascists.

A communiqué from Marshal Pietro Badoglio, commander of the armies in Africa, said:

"The troops of the first army corps have conquered Ambalaja."

"From 11 o'clock this morning and henceforth, the tri-color waves on the summit of the mountain which saw the heroic sacrifice of Toselli and his men."

The movement toward Ambalaja (Amba) in Ethiopia means "high ridge" was begun at dawn yesterday, from a point 10 or 12 miles distant, Badoglio said.

Advancing and soldiers milled around billboards tonight exulting over the advance and studied its scope with the aid of electrically lighted maps of Ethiopia.

A slight rain failed to dampen their spirits. Students and young fascists groups assembled in various cities for parade and to cheer Premier Mussolini and Badoglio.

SELASSIE HOPING
FOR LEAGUE SANCTIONS

ADDIS ABABA, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Hope for additional sanctions against Italy instead of peace talks was expressed today by Emperor Haile Selassie.

"We hope there will be no further delay in the extension of sanctions," he said, in a message to the League of Nations, referring to a meeting of the League sanctions committee called for March 2.

The obligations of member states under Article 16 of the League covenant is in no way modified or dependent upon the consideration of non-member states.

League officials, commenting on Rome rumors that the emperor is sick or wounded, said he was in perfect health.

In his message, the emperor said "the Ethiopian government has not taken and will not take any initiative in the matter of peace proposals."

"The fact that the Italians have been occupying Ethiopian territory, causing us no concern, as they have not occupied any important military positions and their advance has increased their lines of communication and offers greater opportunities for guerrilla tactics against them."

Haile Selassie extended to the "people of North and South America our deepest sympathy for their struggle for peace and sympathy in Ethiopia's great hour of trial. We never will forget our friends."

SENATE BODY TO STUDY
HOLMES CASE MONDAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The senate judiciary committee will study Monday a written summation of the case of John Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who was indicted for conspiracy to defraud the United States.

An effort would be made to expedite action, it was said.
